Photo Exhibit Starts July 16

The Portland Photographic Society will hold its annual show at Oregon Museum of Science and Industry July 16-23.

In addition to approximately 200 current prints on view, both black and white and color, there will be a special group of photographs demonstrating the growth of amateur photography over the past quarter century.

The special group will exhibit the Print of the Year and the Slide of the Year; the pictures which earned these titles from the Society's showings since 1940.

The improvements in picture taking and processing techniques over these years is dramatically illustrated by the collection.
