CHARLES MAYER

Charles Mayer, 76, of Rt. 2, Box 416, Boring, died Dec. 15. He was born in Burns, Ore., June 8, 1891.

As a baby he moved to Medical Lake, Wash., where he attended school. In 1917 he joined the Army and served 18 months. From the Army he settled in the Portland area until 1938 when he moved to Boring.

He worked all of his life as a painter. In 1919 he married Louise Addis. He was a member of the American Legion; WWI Veterans of Gresham; and the Grange No. 260.

Surviving are his wife Louise of Boring; two sons and two daughters, Charles R. of Burbank, Cal., Frank W. of Pueblo, Colo., Mrs. R. T. (Dolores) Brunright of Reseda, Cal., and Bernice Seable of Portland; 14 grandchildren; two brothers and a sister, Walter of Santa Barbara, Ted of Spokane, and Miss Minnie Mayer of Phoenix; also many nieces and nephews.

Services were Dec. 19 at the Carroll Funeral Home with private vault interment in the Willamette National cemetery.

WILLIAM A. LIND

Services for William A. Lind were held at the Bateman Funeral Chapel Dec. 20. Mr. Lind died Friday following a lengthy illness. He had resided in Sandy for the past 18 months.

Mr. Lind was born April 23, 1894 in Sweden. As a young man he moved to the United States. He operated a butcher shop in Tigard for a number of years and also farmed in the Portland area.

Survivors include three brothers, Emil Lind of Portland, Ragner and Thure Strahle, both of Sweden.

Interment was in Douglass cemetery, Troutdale.

Article Praises Editor Metzler

Ken Metzler, editor of the University of Oregon Alumni magazine and son of Outlook correspondent Mrs. Erna Metzler, Rt. 1, Box 467, Boring, was the subject of a December magazine article.

The feature article in the Dec. 10 Emerald Empire, Sunday magazine of the Eugene Register - Guard, describes Metzler and his publication, "Old Oregon". The article is entitled "The Coxswain of Alumni River" and subtitled "A campus editor flashes a challenging beacon to alumni sailing a churning sea."

Under Metzler's guidance the alumni magazine has earned respect as a stimulating and journalistically honest publication. Metzler graduated from the University of Oregon in 1951.

Aliens Asked to Report Address

William L. Pattillo, Acting District Director, of the Immigration and Naturalization Service advised today that the annual alien address report program is again under way.

According to Pattillo, 22,750 aliens reported their addresses last year in the State of Oregon. The number this year is expected to be slightly larger. Pattillo attributes this anticipated increase to the recent amendment to the Immigration laws.

The Immigration official pointed out that the address reports are required by law and willful failure to comply with these requirements may lead to serious consequences.

Forms with which to make the reports are available at all Post Offices and Immigration and Naturalization Service Offices. It is an easy matter to fill out one of the cards and return it to the same office.

Pattillo said that trained personnel will be on hand in all offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service to answer any questions the reporting aliens may have regarding matters. Sufficient trained personnel are not available to furnish this assistance in all Post offices.

OREGON STATE GAME COMMISSION

Phil Schneider, state game director, today issued an order stopping all use of the rope collars used in the eight-year trapping and tagging study of Oregon deer herds. Schneider made this announcement following a report by a California deer hunter that a large four-point buck he killed during a special season held on the Interstate winter range in November was in distress because of the rope band around its neck. The animal had been trapped and marked in Oregon by the Game Commission the previous winter.

The director advised citizens that an intensive search will be made this winter on the Interstate deer winter range to see if other animals might be in discomfort because of the collar. The search will be made jointly by Oregon and California biologists using both ground and air search methods. If any animal is found in distress, it will be immobilized by drug inoculation and the collar removed. A search will be made this winter on other ranges in Oregon where the trapping and tagging operations have been in operation, Schneider said.

John McKean, chief of game operations who heads this statewide program, reported that of the thousands of deer trapped and tagged in the past eight years, only a few instances have been reported of any distress among the marked animals. He thought that in the case of the buck deer killed by the California hunter, the slip knot in the collar failed to function when the animal's neck swelled during the rut. A second reported instance was that of a small deer which had somehow caught its front leg in the collar.

McKean was confident that such accidents are rare, but where injury or suffering might be involved, the techniques used would be modified or eliminated. He said that in any game management operations where animals are handled, marked, tagged, or scrutinized for parasites and diseases, an occasional accident is bound to occur, in spite of all precautionary measures taken. So far, he said, accidents which have occurred have happened to the trappers rather than the trapped.

The primary purpose of the trapping and tagging program, McKean said, is to determine accurately the boundaries of winter and summer ranges used by individual deer herds, their migration routes, habits, food preferences, and other life history information. The informat-tion found thus far has proved invaluable to the management of Oregon's deer herds and has benefited hunters as well as all citizens interested in the welfare of this valuable resource.

McKean noted that widespread observations have been made of belted and collared deer by hunters, loggers, campers, and others during the eight years the program has been in operation. Many tagged animals have been killed during the hunting seasons. Biologists of the Commission constantly search for and record animals through the winter ranges, some two and three winters in a row, following the first installation of the bell or collar.

Almost all of the western states have similar programs in operation, according to McKean, and information covering tagging results, procedures, and techniques are constantly interchanged to provide the most efficient and safe operations possible. No reports of undue distress have been received from these people.

Turkey Roasting Timetable

How Long to Roast the Turkey
To determine how long to cook your turkey, use the chart below. It gives the approximate time required to roast completely thawed or fresh stuffed birds. Time will be slightly less for unstuffed turkeys. Differences in individual birds may necessitate increasing or decreasing cooking time slightly. This chart is merely a guide to total roasting time.

WITHOUT FOIL
Purchased Ready-to-Cook Weight	Oven Temperature	Interior Temperature	Guide to Total Roasting Time
6 to 8 lbs.	325° F	185° F	2-2½ hours
8 to 12 lbs.	325° F	185° F	2½-3 hours
12 to 16 lbs.	325° F	185° F	3-3¼ hours
16 to 20 lbs.	325° F	185° F	3¼-4½ hours
20 to 24 lbs.	325° F	185° F	4½-5½ hours

When dinner is set for a definite hour, wise homemakers start the bird 20 to 30 minutes ahead of schedule to avoid delay should the turkey take longer to cook than was estimated from the guide. This also allows time to make gravy and arrange the bird attractively on the platter.
