School is just around the corner...and so, a few thoughts on education: Charles Lamb referred to "his joyful school-days", while Shakespeare shared the more oft-heard view of "the whining school-boy, with his satchel, and shining morning face, creeping like a snail, unwillingly to school!"

Through the centuries, education, wisdom and knowledge have been life's most sought after goals. In the 1st Century B.C., Publilius Syrus said: "It is only the ignorant who despise education." Benjamin Franklin wrote: "It is hard for an empty sack to stand upright." The famous philosopher Aristotle, felt that: "All who have meditated on the art of governing mankind have been convinced that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth." Lord Broughton stressed the importance of knowledge by saying: "Education makes a people easy to lead, but difficult to drive; easy to govern, but impossible to enslave."

Even through humorists, we find education stressed in yet another way: "Education is what you have left after you have forgotten everything you have learned." - George Savile, Marquis of Halifax (1633-1695). "A highbrow is a person educated beyond his intelligence." - Brander Mathews (1852-1929). A few final words from Mark Twain: "Training is everything, the peach was once a bitter almond; cauliflower is nothing but cabbage with a college education" "I have never let my schooling interfere with my education."!!

Opinions differ -- views are contrary -- but all combine into education. An unknown writer once wrote: "Gross ignorance is 144 times worse than ordinary ignorance!"...and so...on to school!
