

Arts and crafts move to renovated bus shed

This year's bus shed will be next year's arts and crafts room at Sandy High School.

The bus shed is being remodeled to make space for several new rooms. Additional rooms to be added include a main room, rest rooms and rooms for resources, fire arts, kiln and storage space.

According to Sandy High School Superintendent Charles Croston, $26,000 has been budgeted for the project. He said the work is being done on a "time and materials" budget whereby some materials are bought by the school and they pay people for labor.

Gary Connelly, art teacher, has been working on the project with students Dave Kitchen and Dan Dahren, a 1971 graduate. Croston said Aladin Electric and Peterson Plumbing are also working on the new rooms. Jack Freberg, Sandy, did the masonry work.

The new arts and crafts room will have 3,600 square feet. It was started about three weeks ago and completion is scheduled for Aug. 1.

Croston said no definite decision has been made on where to keep the buses. Two sites have been suggested but he was not sure where they would finally be kept.

Driver lodged

A Gresham area man, Marvin Franklin Tolva, was arrested June 28 and lodged in Rocky Butte Jail on a Washington County warrant for violation of the basic driving rule.

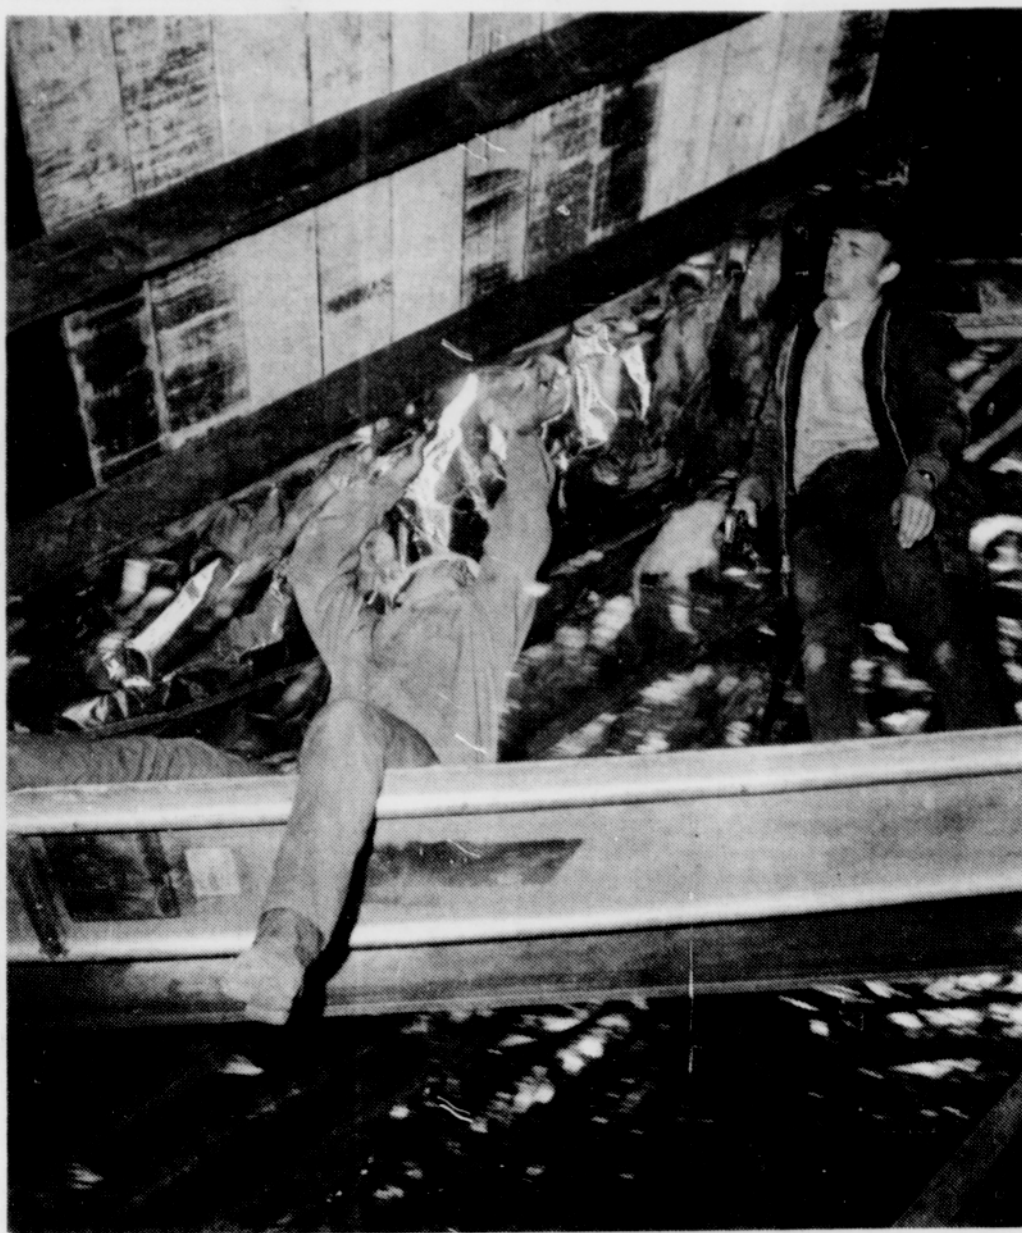

Tools taken

Two boxes of tools valued at $200 were reported stolen June 27 from a station wagon belonging to Arnold A. John, 16311 NE Halsey.

MOVING CABINETS from old arts and crafts room at Sandy high school to new room are Dave Kitchen, left, and Dan Dahren. Dahren, a Sandy graduate, and Kitchen, a senior, are employed by Sandy high school district. They are helping renovate bus shed for new arts and crafts room.
