Electricity is important to today's schools...

Ohms. Amperes. Cathodes. Electrons.

Familiar terms to most of today's students. The Electronic Age has given birth to new words... and new ideas. New teaching tools. New techniques. New learning environments.

In PGE's service area more and more total-electric schools are being built, because of environmental and economic advantages. Proper classroom lighting, all-weather climate control, electronic teaching aids, more equipment for workshop and trade courses and needed outdoor lighting are but a few of the energy uses in the modern school.

PGE serves 39 total-electric schools, including Reynolds High School (pictured).

A school the size of Reynolds uses approximately 1,200,000 kilowatt hours of energy annually. Together, the 39 schools use enough power to supply a small city. But it's power well used. Children learn faster in a good indoor environment.

...and more electricity will be needed to provide superior learning environments for the children of the 1980's.

Electricity will continue to play a vital role in preparing our children for a brighter future.

To keep ahead of your ever-growing electrical demands, PGE is building to make sure that the electrical energy Oregon needs will always be there... in abundance... and at low cost. New nuclear generating plants now being built or in planning, will produce power that is clean to make and clean to use while helping preserve and enhance Oregon's matchless environment.

PORTLAND GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY
Providing clean energy for a better life.

Why Oregon needs more electric power...not less... to meet future needs

- For the good life... electricity helps provide good medical care, good schools; safe, well-lighted neighborhoods; home comfort and labor-saving conveniences.
 - For a healthy economy... an ample supply of electricity is the basis of a prosperous Oregon with jobs for us today... and for our children tomorrow.
 - For preserving and enhancing the environment... clean electricity is the vital energy absolutely needed to rid our air, water and land of pollution.
