THE GOLDEN YEARS

"Somebody could trip over a thing like that!"

People Getting Involved

The concepts of fair and equal treatment of all applicants and persons is the key to any good governmental agency.

The interesting situation which is the subject of a gentle spoof in today's "Golden Years" cartoon by Ol' Bill deals with this thought.

Certainly no alternative or backdoor action should be permitted to set the basic integrity of official decisions made carefully and openly by responsible officials in fair and open public hearings.

All applicants should also be expected to have to go through all the proper channels and no backdoor policies should be allowed.

We are seeing the public today becoming increasingly more aware of what is going on in our government agencies. This movement we feel is good.

At the same time, we in the Sandy-Hoodland area have seen our local government agencies seeking more and more response from us, the public.

One of the best examples of this is the Hoodland Planning Group. Whether all Hoodland residents support the group is not the issue, but rather, the fact that the county has worked with the local citizens to form this citizens group which they as public officials will listen to and seek the groups' advice.

We also have seen the US Forest Service working with the public on studies such as is being done on the Salmon River and the Highway Commission on the Sandy River study.

The city of Sandy has worked with a citizen group in helping give direction to the development of the city park.

These are all good signs of how the people are getting involved in the government and we look for this trend to increase in the future.

Waterway Study Starts

It was obvious at Thursday night's meeting on the Sandy River that there are a lot of questions concerning the Scenic Waterways Act.

The study by the State Highway Commission is just starting and hopefully many of the questions raised Thursday will be answered as the study develops.

One of the major questions we feel the study must cover is the right of the private landowner. It is estimated that approximately 50 per cent of the land to be affected by the Scenic Waterways Act on the Sandy River is privately owned.

Under the Act, the private landowner is said to be under the rules and regulation of the Highway Commission concerning anything done on his land included in a Waterway.

Many persons had questions concerning this issue and we know more will be heard in future meetings.

So as the study develops, we along with everyone else will be watching to see if the Waterways Act is the best way to protect this section of the Sandy River.

The Coming Campaign

We suspect that the Nixon-McGovern presidential campaign this fall is going to be a bitter, divisive one.

Both sides already have indicated a no-holds-barred campaign may be in the offing.

Candidates Nixon and McGovern elicit strong feelings. Democrats have barely been able to restrain their dislike of Pres. Nixon over the past four years and campaign hyperbole is inevitable.

On the other side, McGovern already has stirred strong feelings, even among fellow Democrats. His tax plans have scared the business community half to death and equally vigorous reaction results when he talks about amnesty for draft dodgers, abortion, marijuana etc.

In short, the stage is set for a rough, tough campaign this fall. The Presidency, no matter who is elected, could suffer as a result.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

I wish to thank all those persons who were responsible for my receiving the service to the Community Award. It was quite an honor to work with the people in and around Sandy who also gave up many hours. These people also deserve an award and appreciation.

Appreciatively yours,
Gary Sandblast

To the Editor:

Again this year the fourth of July celebration in Sandy was a tremendous success due to the fine efforts of those who put time, energy, and donations into its making.

The following clubs and persons should be specially thanked for their programming and participation: Mr. Jim Anstine and the swim team; Jim Martin and the baseball team; Fred Truesdale and the Sporting Dogs' Association for their races; the Boys' Baseball Association for their carnival; the Sandy Fire Department and visiting fire departments that participated in the water ball competition; Joe Brockway, Bill and his crew for his parachute demonstration; Johnny Johnson for his airplane; Dale Nicholls, Sandy Chamber of Commerce, and those who participated for another fine talent show; the Sandy Lions Club for the fireworks show; Mel Lamm and Mayor Melvin Haneberg; Queen Jeanine Koester and her court, Princesses Jane Emerson, Patty Griffiths and April Wright; Mrs. Florence Schmidt, chaperon; the Sandy Kiwanis; Sandy Post; Howard Berger; Sandy High School's custodians; Jim Hartman; the Sandy Police Department for a fine outstanding job in traffic control; and to the other clubs, organizations, and individuals who participated. A special thanks to the businessmen and women who donated so that this show could be presented.

Gary Sandblast
President,
Sandy Civic Services.

County IED schedules office move

The Clackamas Intermediate Education District has moved from the County complex on Warner-Milne Road to 1107 7th Street in Oregon City and to the Clairmont Building on the Clackamas Community College campus.

Located in the 7th Street office are the administrative services, special education department, student services, career education and outdoor education departments, the audiovisual repair service as well as the various teacher-oriented and community services.

Housed in the Clairmont building are the Data Processing Center, the Testing Service, Film Library and the Print Shop.

Until 1963, the IED was known as the County School Superintendent's Office. The agency serves as a link between the county school districts and the Oregon Board of Education, providing services which the county schools—for economic or other reasons—could not individually sustain.

Reynolds may open next year

Reynolds Metal Co. plant in Troutdale may re-open within the next year.

This prediction was made to The Outlook last week by Robert Gam, West Coast regional manager of public relations.

However, there is a contingency. It will depend upon the continued demand for aluminum. Last November when the Troutdale plant closed there was a surplus of aluminum on the market. Gam said that this surplus has now virtually gone.

The Troutdale plant is the only Reynolds plant now closed. However, the plant in Louisiana is operating only one pot line. The Longview Reynolds plant was put in full operation in May.

William Campbell, Troutdale plant manager, said that when the local plant starts operation it will use the new pot line that has never been in operation. When operating at full capacity the Troutdale plant employs about 800. There is a small crew on duty during the shut down.

A number of men from the Troutdale plant have gone to Iran to help build a new plant. Campbell said he has been asked why the company was building a new plant in Iran when the Troutdale plant is closed.

He said the plant in Iran will not be a Reynolds plant. It is being built for the Iranian government. Native workers are being trained for its operation, Campbell said.

Budget shuffling continues

The Clackamas County Board of Commissioners is still shuffling its $11.7 million budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Expenditures tentatively cut within the general fund include the Planning Department, $6,204 for new employees and $1,000 for printing; Columbia-Willamette Air Pollution Authority, one half year's membership at $4,283; Association of Oregon Counties, dues at $7,875; travel expenses; and District Attorney's supplies of $1,200.

Others include Communications and Emergency Services, new employees at $7,764; Tax Department, office and operations at $3,000; data processing, $7,000.

It also includes building maintenance for supplies at $4,000 and lights at $6,000; building rental of one half the assessor's office at $9,600; Board of County Commissioners, $6,000; and state tax funds at $18,000.

The District Attorney's office and the personal services of the Health Department were brought up to the budgetary requirements of last year's salary scheduled.

The shift gave $10,000 to the county attorney and $34,000 to the health authorities.

The Board of Commissioners is also considering the possibility of asking voters for a tax base increase in the fall.

Salmon barbecue set at Canby

The second annual Senior Salmon Barbecue will be held at the Canby Fairgrounds on Friday, July 28, at 3:00 p.m.

All Senior Citizens are invited to attend the festivities, which will be free. Anyone wishing transportation may call 655-2518 for assistance.

Organizations sponsoring the Salmon Barbecue include Development Opportunity Incorporated, which is a Community Action Agency; Northwest Steelheaders; Clackamas Community College; and Committee for Progress Through Law.

The featured speaker will be Rep. Al Ullman, and other dignitaries such as Senator Bob Packwood and former Senator Wayne Morse are also expected. The Castle Jazz Band, which includes George Bruns and Monte Ballou of Sandy, will provide the Entertainment.

Preparations for 2,000 guests are being made; over 1,000 attended last year. Members of the Sandy Golden Age Center participating are: Violet Simmons, Vance Hewitt, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sutherland.

Pasto family has addition

Dr. and Mrs. George Pasto, Rt. 2, Box 11820, Boring, are the parents of a son they have named Christopher Charles. The baby was born July 10 at Woodland Park Hospital, weighing 8 lb. 6 oz.

He joins a twin brother and sister, Mike and Lisa, 9, Mimi, 8, and Julie, 5.

Grandparents are Mrs. Euleta O'Malley, Portland and Mrs. Mary Ellen Pasto, Portland.

Air quality study made

A study on particulate air quality by the Columbia-Willamette Air Pollution Authority has revealed that there were more contaminants in the air in May 1972 than during April 1972 in Clackamas County.

Figures given were eight per cent worse than May 1970, and 14 per cent worse than May 1971.

Tapes gone

Gary Hosler, 2105 NW 3rd, reported to Gresham police July 14 that a tape deck and tapes valued at $174 had been stolen from his vehicle.

Veterans counseling

Mt. Hood Community College will again provide counseling for veterans and veterans' dependents during 1972-73.

This is the fourth year in a row that Mt. Hood and the Veterans Administration (VA) have had the cooperative agreement.

A $30,000 federal grant will fund the program.

Dr. Bill F. Stewart, MHCC director of counseling, expects to provide counseling services to about 30 vets per month, or about 360 during the fiscal year.

The program takes in veterans from throughout Oregon and southwestern Washington.

Each counseling session consumes approximately four hours as vets go through a battery that includes interviews, testing, test interpretation and the planning of a study program.

Vets receive suggestions as to courses of study which fit their aptitudes and interests. Specific schools offering appropriate curriculums and programs are then recommended.
