Finnish, Austrian, American trees highlight craft show

Christmas baubles you can't buy at the dime store will be featured at the Damascus Pioneer Craft School's student show Monday through Friday, Dec. 3 to 7.

The Damascus craft school, located behind the new shopping center off Highway 212, will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Each pioneer craft teacher will give a demonstration of the art she teaches, according to Amy Miller, owner of the school. There will be tours of the school and Christmas cookies and wassail will be served.

Three Christmas trees will be decorated, one with Finnish wood shaving ornaments, one with traditional Austrian straw ornaments and one with American decorations.

The Douglas fir trees were raised on the Millers' place in Marmot.

"You can buy 10 cent baubles but handmade decorations are what make a tree really special," Mrs. Miller, who enlisted the aid of husband Joe, son Phil and daughter-in-law Barb in cutting the trees, said.

The trees will have real candles, Mrs. Miller said, plus the different nationality decorations, most of which will be handmade.

More than 50 students will show their work.

Mrs. Miller will demonstrate spinning and Kaino Leethem will demonstrate how to make the Finnish tree ornaments from 10 to noon Monday. Rosemary Davidson will demonstrate quilting from 1 to 3 p.m.

On Tuesday morning, Joan Feris will demonstrate macrame including spider-web like decorations, and Martha Gannett will tell about silk screening in the afternoon.

Dodi Gannett will show a special woven decoration she designed on Wednesday morning and Ruth Tabor, the knitting teacher, will show how to make crocheted snowflakes. Mrs. Leethem will demonstrate again Thursday morning along with Bari Black, who will show stitchery projects. Traute Goertzen will show how to make the Austrian straw ornaments in the afternoon.

Bonnie Richardson will demonstrate calligraphy Friday morning and there will be spinning and Finnish wood shaving ornament demonstrations. Mrs. Goertzen will repeat her straw decor demonstration in the afternoon.

Public is welcome at this free week-long craft show, which replaces the one-day open house the school has had in the past.

OBITUARIES

Dock Hunt

Dock J. Hunt Jr., a lifetime resident of the Gresham area died Nov. 21 from injuries suffered in an auto accident on the Mt. Hood Highway. He was 43 years old.

Hunt was born in Gresham, Oct. 9, 1930, the son of Dock and Norma Hunt. He was raised in Sandy and received his education at Sandy High School.

Hunt served in the U.S. Navy from 1949 to 1961. While living in this area, he was employed on various construction jobs, most recently for Weyerhaeuser Company.

He is survived by his wife Betty and children Norma Jean of Boring; Carol Ann of Boring; Rocky Grace of Redmond.

His parents survive along with a brother Calvin of Portland and sister Margie Jackson of Boring; and Dixie Marshall of Sandy.

Funeral services for Hunt are 2 p.m. Wednesday at The Bateman Funeral Chapel in Gresham with interment at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Gresham.

Ernest Dutton

Ernest Dutton, 61, P.O. Box 21, Quartzsite, Ariz., died Nov. 23.

He was born Jan. 12, 1912, in Beaver City, Neb., and attended school there.

He then moved to Arizona, then to Colorado and finally to Oregon after completing service in the Army during World War II. He married Katherine Hagstrom in Ashland, Wis., Sept. 1, 1943.

The couple made their home in the Sandy, Gresham and Boring areas following their marriage.

The couple moved to California for a short time, returning to Sandy in 1956. Dutton worked in the building construction industry until his recent retirement.

The couple traveled upon his retirement. Dutton was an ardent fisherman and rock hound.

The couple attended the Assembly of God Church, Sandy.

Survivors are: his wife Katherine, Sandy; five children, Rodney, Elvin and Rebecca Dutton, all of Portland, Mrs. D. (Roberta) Copher, Sandy, and Mrs. M. (Elouise) Carolous, Portland; six brothers and three sisters, Robert, Otto and Kenneth Dutton, all of Portland, Guy, Malin, Ore., Charles and Earl and Mrs. P. (Anna) Dastert, Pearl Dutton, and Mrs. G. (Ethel) Strasser all of Denver.

Services were held Nov. 27 in the Carroll Funeral Home Chapel.

Interment was at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Gresham.

Harold Christensen

Funeral services for Harold A. Christensen, Rt. 2 Box 749, Boring, were held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Bateman Funeral Chapel.

Christensen died early Saturday morning from a sudden heart attack.

Born in Massachusetts, he came to Oregon nearly 40 years ago and was married to Ida Hager of Creswell in 1937.

At the time of his death,

Christensen was employed with the Monarch Machine Co. of Portland as a machinist.

He is survived by his wife, Ida, and three sons, Duane and Stanley of Portland and James of Lake Oswego; also one brother, Donald of California and a sister, Mrs. Helen Hildebrand of Montana, and five grandchildren. Interment was in Lincoln Memorial Park.

Claude Woodle

Claude Palmer Woodle, 84, was born into the pioneer family of Joseph P. and Lydia Ann Woodle at Eagle Creek. He died Nov. 19 after an illness of several weeks.

He is survived by his wife, Gladys; three daughters: Mable Eaton of Corbett, Mrs. Roger (Verna) Dean of Rupert, Ida, and Mrs. Howard (Ruth) Winters of Troutdale; and two sisters, Mrs. David (Myrtle) Johnson of Sandy, and Mrs. Joe (Nettie) Rickey of Estacada. There also are eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren, plus many nieces, nephews, and cousins.

He was a member of the Corbett Christian Church, and the Columbia Gorge Rockhounds. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Howlett, came to Oregon by covered wagon train led by Sam Barlow. They took a donation land claim in the hill country southeast of the pioneer settlement of Eagle Creek. On this donation land claim Lydia Ann Howlett was born.

Joseph Woodle came to Oregon with his widowed mother and one sister in 1867, going first to Oregon City and later to Eagle Creek where he met and married Lydia Ann Howlett.

They settled next to the Howletts and there raised their family. Claude, the fourth of 11 children, was born and raised on property adjoining where his mother was born.

When Claude was a young man the family moved to Estacada and he went into the real estate business. He also worked as deputy assessor in eastern Clackamas County for four years.

In the winter of 1913-14, he and his father came to the Banner Acres area, near Springdale, and built several farm buildings for his cousin, Sam Holcomb. In March 1914 they attended the dedication services of the Corbett Christian Church building.

In October 1914 he was again at the Holcomb farm and attended church services at Corbett. It was there that he met Gladys Lasley, and on Sept. 15, 1915, they were married. They were the first couple to be married in that church building, and 50 years later their golden wedding reception was held there.

Claude worked as a roof shingler and carpenter for many years. In 1924 he bought one acre of land fronting the Columbia Gorge Highway and erected a building and started a hardware store and lumber yard, which he operated for more than 30 years. He also carpentered during most of these years. He retired from this business in 1955.

Memorial services were held Saturday, Nov. 24 at 10:30 a.m. at the Corbett Christian Church. Bateman Funeral Chapel will be in charge of services.

DEQ to hold hearing on sewage disposal

Proposed Environmental Quality Commission rules for subsurface sewage disposal will be considered Dec. 12 at a public hearing in Portland.

The rules, to be adopted by the commission Dec. 17 are of major importance to property owners and developers because they set requirements for septic tanks. This can determine whether any building can be done in areas that aren't served by sewers.

The new rules take effect early in 1974. A permit program has been administered by the State Health Division under temporary rules adopted by the commission Oct. 5. A new 1973

law gives DEQ full responsibility for subsurface sewage
