

Jernstedt stresses record to Hoodland chamber

Ken Jernstedt stresses his record in public office as one of the reasons he should be re-elected to State Senator for District 28.

Republican Jernstedt, a public relations consultant, is a resident of Hood River, and addressed the Hoodland Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

Jernstedt has been a state senator for eight years and previously served two years as a state representative.

In an interview with The Post, Jernstedt said he supports Ballot Measures 10 and 12 which would respectively repeal the Land Conservation Development Commission (LCDC) and the Columbia River Association of Governments (CRAG).

"CRAG doesn't give enough say to some of the people who are most affected by their decisions," said Jernstedt. He added that he voted against the formation of CRAG in the 1973 legislative session.

He said he realizes that there is more opposition to CRAG and LCDC in East Clackamas County and the coastal areas of Oregon than any other area of the state.

Jernstedt said he is afraid if Ballot Measures 10 and 12 aren't approved the legislature won't do anything to change the state's land use planning laws.

"I definitely believe in planning and think we're going to have to start all over again," said Jernstedt. "There's such a lack of communication that a new start is imperative."

He said he believed property owners and citizens should have more say in the final land use planning decisions.

Another one of Jernstedt's concerns for the next legislative sessions is to gain more financing for state correctional facilities.

"People are wanting to crack down on criminals and I do too," he noted. Jernstedt said he would favor more mandatory jail sentences.

The state is going to have to either build onto the state penitentiary or expand the prison facilities, according to Jernstedt.

"This is a tremendous cost," Jernstedt said. "But if we're going to have crime control, we're going to have to pay for it."

Jernstedt also said the school financing problem "is getting way out of hand."

He said he would like to see each school district get a workable tax base. At present, some schools have a tax base that dates to the early part of this century. By statute, this tax base can be increased by 6 per cent each year.

A workable tax base would give schools something to fall back on if their budget failed Jernstedt said.

He said he would favor up to 50 per cent basic school support from the state.

Jernstedt added, however, that most schools can expect out of the next legislative session is 35 per cent, he added.

"And we may not get that," Jernstedt said he believed there should be a balance between the economy and the environment.

"You can't please everybody with this formula," he acknowledged.

Jernstedt said he is presently working on a bill which would bring all the farm commodity commissions such as pears, wheat, filberts, etc., under the control of the State Department of Agriculture instead of the Department of Agriculture.

According to Jernstedt, putting all the commodity commissions under the control of the department would save money and increase efficiency.

Sandy Kiwanis given 'home club' banner

Dwane Snook, past Lt. Governor of Kiwanis Division 66, presented the Sandy Kiwanis Club with the Lt. Governor's "Home Club" banner at the general membership meeting last Thursday evening.

Howard Berger, Sandy club member, has recently been installed as the new Lt. Governor of the nine club

Berger recently officiated at the installation of officers and directors for all nine clubs.

Division 66 of the Pacific Northwest District of Kiwanis International consists of the clubs located at Estacada, Gladstone-Oak Grove, Gresham, Milwaukie, Oregon City, Rockwood, Sandy, Southgate-Clackamas and the Columbia River Gorge.

Area CB'ers work for Oral Hull Park

The San Cada CB'ers, a recently organized citizens band group from the Sandy-Estacada area, have offered their services to the Oral Hull Foundation for the Blind.

Club members Dwain Stamm and George Wright recently brought a wrecker belonging to Ramin Wrecker to pull out trees and clear undergrowth in the area of Rainbow Lodge. Future plans call for some of the trees to be transplanted around the grounds and other left for shade.

"When this work is finished, the beautification of the area will enhance the entrance to the lodge," said Oral Hull assistant caretaker Marie Webb.

Fire destroys two-story home

A fire destroyed an Eagle Creek home, Monday morning.

At 1:55 a.m. the blaze was reported at the home of Terry Burroughs, Rt. 1, Box 215, Eagle Creek. Although the fire was contained within 20 minutes the home was called a complete loss by Boring Fire Chief Matt Shields.

Shields said the fire started in a waste paper basket under the kitchen by a cigarette butt. The blaze went undetected for 45 minutes to an hour.

Burroughs tried to walk to the floor level of the two-story farm house on Judd Road after smelling smoke but was forced back by flames. The only remaining exit from the home was through a second story window. Burroughs tossed two children, ages four months and 1½ years, and then he and his wife leaped to safety.

The four were later treated for cuts, bruises and burns.

The Boring Fire Department was assisted by Sandy Fire Department on the call.

Prospective 4-H leaders to meet

Those interested in learning about leading a 4-H horse club are invited to a 7:30 p.m. orientation meeting Thursday, Oct. 21, at the Clackamas County Extension Office in the Federal Building.

Sponsored by the Clackamas County 4-H Horse Advisory and the Extension Service, the program is designed to answer the questions of a potential leader as well as providing support for the first year leader.

New films, slide sets and 4-H project materials will be featured. New leaders will receive notebooks containing information on sources of assistance available to them according to Mrs. Shirley Watson, coordinator of the evening session.

Counties receive

Receipts from the federal management of re-vested Oregon & California Railroad grant lands in western Oregon totaled $59,126,084 during July, August, and September. Those months constitute the "transition quarter" between old and new fiscal years established by Congress.

Half of the money collected from the sale of timber and management of other resources on the O&C lands goes to the 18 western Oregon counties.

Thus, $29,563,042 was deposited to the accounts of the counties in a Portland bank on Oct. 15. Clackamas County received $1,640,748.

County shares of receipts during July, August and September of 1975 were somewhat less. They totaled $28,117,352, according to Oregon State Director Murl W. Storms of the federal Bureau of Land Management. Payments to the counties for all of the old fiscal year which ended June 30, 1976, set a record at $59,120,860, however.

Storms said that future payments to the western Oregon counties will be based on the new federal fiscal year which extends from Oct. 1 to Sept. 30.

Our man in charge of Public Relations.

He's the installer-repairman. But there's a lot more to his job than installing your phone and keeping it working. Because he's probably all the phone company you'll ever meet, he also knows a thing or two about meeting the public.

He's the kind of guy you don't mind inviting into your home. (And the kind of guy who'll wipe his feet before he comes in.)

He's courteous and he's efficient... the kind of guy who can handle about 14 service calls a day without blowing a fuse.

He's the heart of the telephone operation. Without him we wouldn't be in business.

So you can be sure that doing business with him will be a pleasure.
