

A cool catch

FETCHING A stick for his master, this canine gets the added bonus of swimming in the Sandy River. Catching the stick was a problem for the slow swimming dog in the swift running river.

Timber sale prodecures proposed

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is considering several proposals to strengthen its national forest timber sale procedures following an internal review than uncovered weaknesses that could result in theft of government logs.

Among the proposals are a general tightening of the log accountability requirements nationally to include better identification of forest service logs, tighter controls on log removal receipts, and more stringent contract language to deal with violations.

Forest Service Chief John R. McGuire said the procedures would be amended in July after the proposed changes have been circulated among interested parties. McGuire, concerned that the system used to account for national forest logs might not be fully effective, appointed a forest service team to examine the situation last fall. Many of the team's proposals can be implemented this year while others will take longer, he said.

Highlights of the festival will be carnival rides, provided by Funtastic Shows, arts and crafts, food booths, dunk tank, beer garden and drawing for various prizes.

The Damascus PTA has launched a campaign to sell "Damascus Daze" buttons. A ticket will be given with the purchase of each button for a grand prize drawing, slated Saturday evening to culminate the day's events. Grand prize will be a portable color television. Other prizes include a chartered fishing trip for two by BJ Charters, a 10-speed bicycle and assorted other prizes.

Various exhibits will be set up throughout the center, featuring items from ceramics, velvet paintings, pastries, cotton candy and macrame.
