LOVE IS NOT ENOUGH

The problems of a black family trying to make it and still stay together in their new home are the subject of the drama 'Love Is Not Enough,' the June 12 feature on 'NBC Monday Night at the Movies.'

In this pilot for a projected series, Bernie Casey (pictured) plays Mike Harris, a widowed father of five who polls his closely-knit brood as to whether they should pick up stakes and move from Detroit to Los Angeles, where his cousin Charley Adams (Stu Gilliam) says there is a job awaiting him.

However, when they get there, they find the promised job is nonexistent and it's up to Mike to call upon other skills in order to create an opportunity for himself.

The movie, written by Arthur Ross and directed by Ivan Dixon, features Renee Brown, Stuart K. Robinson, Lia Jackson, Eddie Singleton, Dain Turner and Carol Tillery Banks.

CIRCUS OF THE STARS

Thirty-five of the most popular television and movie stars temporarily abandon their acting careers to become daring circus performers to the second annual 'Circus of the Stars,' a special to be rebroadcast Sunday, June 11, on CBS-TV.

Lucille Ball, Telly Savalas, Cindy Williams and Michael York (both pictured) are ringmasters for the gala event that includes performances by (in alphabetical order): Marty Allen, Lucie Arnaz, George Burns, Lynda Carter, Gary Collins, Robert Conrad, Jamie Lee Curtis, Lola Falana, Peter Fonda, Richard Hatch, Earl Holliman, Jack Klugman, Tony Lo Bianco, Penny Marshall, James and Kristy McNichol, Mary Ann Mobley, David Nelson, Valerie Perrine, Mackenzie Phillips, Deborah Raffin, Richard Roundtree, Susan Saint James, Ann Turkel, Abe Vigoda, Betty White, Paul Williams, plus the U.S. Army Golden Knights.

The stars themselves—with only a few weeks of rigorous training—actually perform dangerous feats on the high wire, the flying trapeze and in cages with wild animals.
