

THE COMMUNITY SCHOOL'S unicorn unit parades by onlookers. The Community School entry placed third in the non-commercial float competition.

The skies cleared and the temperatures were comfortable for the Sandy Mountain Days parade on Proctor Boulevard Thursday night.

Approximately 35 entries paraded past a large crowd of spectators who lined the street. Grand Marshall Jim Bosley leaped from his lead unit to shake hands with the crowd at the halfway point of the parade.

The only misfortune in the parade occurred when one of the horses broke into a gallop and the horse's young rider was thrown. She was helped to her feet by several spectators and given a round of applause as she walked off.

SWEEPSTAKE'S AWARDS

THEME AWARD — Best over-all use of theme: Bunting Advertising.

FLORENCE AWARD — Best Marching Group: Boy Scout Troop 248

GRAND MARSHAL'S AWARD — Best Equestrian Entry: Sandy Roadrunners Game Club

QUEEN'S TROPHY — Best Commercial Float: Clackamas County Bank

MAYOR'S TROPHY — Best non-commercial, civic organization or communities float: Boone's Ferry Days

EVERYBODY loves a parade

PARADE MARSHALL JIM BOSLEY waves a "Hello".

THE QUEEN'S FLOAT featured five of the loveliest ladies in the area.

Photos by John Kline

SANDY'S OWN Keystone Kops arrested a few parade onlookers.

UNICYCLIST DOES IT alone down the parade route.