Kiwanis project

JOHN MEIGHAM, an employee of Estacada Electric, puts finishing touches on the new concession building at the Timber Bowl. The building's construction is a service project of the Estacada Kiwanis club.

MANAGEMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

MORE TIMBER MEANS MORE PROFIT. FOR YOU.

Publishers Paper has adapted their own intensive forest management practices to suit the smaller woodland owner's property.

As a woodland owner, you're one of four million Americans who own 59% of America's forestland. By managing your woodland today, you can help increase wood fibre resources tomorrow. Publishers Paper wants to help you.

When you join MAP, Publishers provides management assistance for your woodland.

MAP increases your growth per acre, increases the quality of your timber . . . and increases the income from your woodland property.

MAP costs you nothing. In return for MAP, Publishers Paper asks you to enter into a cooperative agreement granting Publishers the right of first refusal to purchase any timber you may decide to sell. That's all. You pay no fees to Publishers for MAP, and you retain full control of your property and timber, and make all decisions regarding when timber will be harvested and when stand improvements are implemented.

There's a good reason to find out more about MAP: more timber means more income for you. Contact our Woodland Forester at Route 1, Box 70 DDD, Eagle Creek, Oregon 97022, or call 637-3041.
