

Goodies and games attracted 800 to dinner

The autumn dinner sponsored by St. Michael's Catholic Church has become a Sandy tradition after 28 years. Saturday evening more than 800 were served a ham dinner and trimmings in the high school commons. Pies of every flavor were offered, and after-dinner games and booths lured children with the promise of prizes. Proceeds exceeded $2,000 and will go to the church, church's building fund.

Eileen Suchanek triple decked pies for Julie and Amy.

Christmas shoppers browse at bazaar table.

Robert Kruger is cheered on to a 'bull's eye'.

Food was the main attraction at the high school commons Saturday night.

Kaye
Barton
photos