A WOMAN CALLED MOSES

Emmy winner Cicely Tyson (pictured) heads a cast that also includes the late Will Geer, Robert Hooks, James Wainwright, Jason Bernard, Harry Rhodes, and Dick Anthony Williams, in 'A Woman Called Moses,' a four-hour drama about one woman's fight against slavery, airing in two parts, Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 11 and 12, on NBC-TV.

Orson Welles narrates the story, which is based on the life of Harriet Ross Tubman, a slave who escaped to freedom over the Mason-Dixon line and returned many times to rescue other slaves via her "underground railroad."

In Part I, Harriet is living with her father, Daddy Ben, and the start of the Ross family on a plantation. When she plots to buy her freedom, she is thwarted first by a plantation owner, who turns down her offer, and second by her husband, John Tubman—half-white and free—who steals her "freedom money." With the aid of Thomas Garrett and others, Harriet eventually escapes to Philadelphia.
