much for kids around Sandy to do with their spare time. "They just hang around and don't do much of anything except play football," he said.

Botbyl has been trying to get the school gyms opened up on Saturdays for kids' basketball but has been unsuccessful until recently. Sandy High coach Dennis Warren has agreed to open the high school gym on Saturday mornings for a kids' program. Players on the high school team will supervise the action.

The grade school gym will continue to remain closed on Saturdays because arrangements could not be made for supervision.

The other big item in kids' lives besides sports, it was acknowledged at the meeting, is music. Botbyl announced that the Sandy Jaycees plan to organize dances at the Oddfellows' Hall every other week. City Councilman Bruce Cook is behind that effort.

In addition to opening up the dialogue among youth workers, Youth Network members are putting together a questionnaire for kids to find out what kinds of positive activities they're interested in. The questionnaire will be distributed through the schools.
