

Former Sandy resident dies in Washington

Funeral services will be held today for former Sandy resident Norman B. Erickson who died of a heart attack Saturday in Washington D.C. where he had gone to participate in the inauguration celebration of President Ronald Reagan.

Erickson, who was stricken by the fatal attack in a Washington D.C. hotel on the day after his 64th birthday, was invited to the inauguration because of his affiliation with the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship. He and his wife, Adela, had been scheduled for a full round of Christian-oriented inauguration activities and a Full Gospel Business Men's convention, according to the couple's daughter Kathy Schilperoort of Sandy.

Erickson, a longtime Sandy resident, who was living in Gresham had a history of heart trouble and had been ill prior to his departure for the nation's capitol.

"But he was feeling real good and enjoyed his birthday in Washington," said Schilperoort. "We wish he could have gone through the whole round of inauguration activities but we're glad he got there. The anticipation of the event was very exciting and he'd been looking forward to going for three months."

He is survived by his wife; one son, Christopher of Gresham; two daughters, Kathy Schilperoort of Sandy and Elizabeth Porcuro of Flagstaff, Ariz.; a brother; four sisters, and five grandchildren.

The funeral will be at the Mt. Hood Christian Center in Gresham at 2 p.m. Interment will be at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Gresham.

Permit application to be considered by county

A temporary permit application to continue using a travel trailer as a residence will be considered by the Clackamas County hearings officer next Thursday, Jan. 29, at 7 p.m. in the County Courthouse in Oregon City.

LaVonne Zimmerman proposes to renew a temporary permit to use a travel trailer as a residence for her relatives until the existing house on the property is expanded.

The property is on the northeast side of Pugh Road, approximately 336 feet east of Firwood Road.

The application is available for inspection at the Department of Environmental Services, Planning Division, 902 Abernethy Road, Oregon City.

Michael Modjeski of Portland rests on a hitching post in front of his new Calamity Jane's Restaurant on Highway 26 approximately 1 1/2 miles east of Sandy. The old wild west setting features swinging doors, boardwalks, antique lights and a brass footrail at the counter. The restaurant will serve hamburgers, sandwiches and dinners beginning next week. Modjeski has 17 years of experience in the restaurant business.

Fawbush to chair committee

State Rep. Wayne Fawbush, D-Hood River, is in Salem for his third session of the Oregon Legislature, facing six months on two of its busiest committees.

Fawbush, who represents the 56th District which includes Sandy, will chair the House Environment and Energy Committee and will sit on the joint Revenue Committee.

The Revenue Committee's task this session, according to Fawbush, is to counteract the shortfalls of the state budget. "We face the dreary possibility of raising taxes for the first time in many sessions," he said.

He questions the approach some legislators have chosen for balancing the budget. "The leadership expects Ways and Means to choose which projects it wants to fund," Fawbush said. "Then the Revenue Committee will have to decide how to fund these projects.

"In our own lives," he continued, "we always look at the money we have available, then decide what we'll do with it. I think that's the proper approach for the legislature too."

A major challenge facing the Environment and Energy Committee is to determine how the state will meet its energy demands, said Fawbush. Committee members will examine conservation and renewable energy sources as alternatives to traditional energy production methods.

Oregon's statewide land use planning program is up for review. The committee will look at the program's accomplishments after 10 years of implementation, said Fawbush, to determine how well it has met its goals.

"Essentially, we'll be looking to see if the planning process has accomplished what it's supposed to have accomplished," he said.

Water will also be a central issue in the 1981 Legislature. "We've grown so dependent on water for both agricultural and domestic use that we'd better start examining the extent of our resources before it's too late," Fawbush said. The committee will work on the governor's safe water program.

Constituents may contact Fawbush toll-free by calling 1-800-452-7813 and asking for extension 8-8794. His address in Salem is Room H488.

Booster club banquet set

The newly formed Sandy High Booster Club will sponsor a special awards banquet this Wednesday, Jan. 28, at 7 p.m. in the Commons.

All current members of the Booster Club, parents of honored students, and the award winners are invited. Featured speaker will be former Portland Trailblazer and Detroit Piston Terry Dischinger.

Certificates of accomplishment will be presented to all nominees and winners of the monthly Outstanding Student and Athlete competitions.

The first banquet will honor the designees from the months of September, October, November and December. Information about joining the Booster Club may be obtained by contacting Evelyn Proctor, 668-7104, or Donna Vedder, 668-6113.

Pioneer potluck slated

The Sandy Pioneer Association will meet at a potluck dinner this Sunday, Jan. 25, at 12:30 p.m. in the Melvin N. Haneberg Community Center, 38348 Pioneer Blvd., in Sandy.

Items on the business agenda include the election of new directors, the selection of the 1981 King and Queen, the selection of the various committees and planning for new publications as a means of acquiring revenue for a pioneer museum — the association's ultimate goal.

The association welcomes as members anyone who is interested in local history. Annual dues are $2 and $25 for a lifetime membership.

Everyone is asked to bring his or her own table service. Coffee will be furnished.

Rebekahs, Odd Fellows install 1981 officers

Joint installation of 1981 officers of the Sandy Rebekah Lodge and Sandy Odd Fellow Lodge was held at the Sandy I.O.O.F. Hall last Thursday, Jan. 15.

Willis Witter, District deputy grand master of the I.O.O.F. Lodge, and Adela Reckman, District deputy president of the Rebekah Lodge, were the Installing Officers. Alfred Gunderson and Helen Swails were the Installing Marshals.

Elective officers for the Rebekahs are Lois Polivka, noble grand; Betty Denbo, vice grand; Edna Amstad, recording secretary; Maude Johnson, financial secretary, and Adela Reckman, treasurer.

Elective officers for the Odd Fellows are Robert McBee, noble grand; Don McLean, vice grand; Dave Klingler, secretary, and Willis Witter, treasurer.

Dedication of Hood lodge to be shown

The Oregon Historical Society will present a movie showing the dedication of Timberline Lodge at the Oregon History Series meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Oregon Pioneers this Monday, Jan. 26.

The film, "Now and Forever Part II," will be shown in Beaver Hall at the Oregon Historical Society, 1230 S.W. Park Ave., in Portland.

The movie, filmed with hand-cranked motion picture cameras, depicts events from the 1920s through mid-century, including the first airmail flight, Indians fishing at Celilo Falls, and the dedications of Bonneville Dam and Timberline Lodge.

The public is invited. Persons whose ancestors settled in the Oregon Country prior to 1859 are eligible for membership.

Karen Stanton is in hot water — and her team could help PGE customers save more than $250,000 a year.

This year, Karen Stanton and her co-workers are aiming at helping PGE customers save more than $250,000 in water heating costs as part of PGE's Water Heater Incentive Program (W.H.I.P.).

Karen and her fellow Renewable Resource

Inspectors are helping PGE residential customers arrange installation of solar water heating and water heater heat pump systems in their homes.

PGE customers, who take advantage of the W.H.I.P. program, will be given $300 if they install a solar water heater or water heater heat pump. Or, PGE will advance them the money they get back next year in state and federal tax credits for installing a solar water heater, as a non-interest loan.

It's hoped that up to 3,000 such systems will be installed this year which would mean a total savings of 6,920,000 kilowatt-hours, or $254,992 at today's prices.

Electricity costs are going up everywhere, it's not just here.

Both private and public utilities throughout the country are facing soaring costs. Higher equipment costs, fuel costs and interest rates have everyone on a tight budget. And the rapid growth of new residential and business customers in our service area is another strain on our existing supply.

But, at PGE, we are fortunate to have people like Karen Stanton working hard to keep costs down for customers wherever they can. People who care.

People with cost-saving ideas for you.

Revenue sharing must be filled on tax form

The federal income tax forms include a new revenue sharing question to identify the taxpayer's residence. Oregonians need to complete this section of the tax return to accurately identify their residential jurisdiction.

The information determines the distribution of general revenue-sharing funds to state and local governments.

Instructions on how to complete the questionnaire are contained in the federal tax packages. Oregon residents need answer only three of the four questions. They tell the name of the city and state; whether you live in or out of the city limits; and the name of the county.

Question D, concerning townships, does not apply to Oregon residents. It should be left blank.

Taxpayers who have difficulty answering the revenue-sharing questions on this year's tax return and cannot find the answer to their questions in the tax form instructions, may direct their inquiries to the Bureau of Census, Residence Questions, Washington, D.C. 20233, or call collect 812-288-3055 between 5 a.m. and 5 p.m., Pacific time, Monday through Friday.
