CINDY SAYS

By CINDY ADAMS

NEW YORK - Ernest Borgnine's now A-OK after taking a tumble and banging a few bones while filming a rootin', tootin', shootin' cowboy scene. "They put copper wire instead of a steel rod between the horses and the carriage and it snapped," his wife, Tove, told me. "I visited pal Bess Myerson in the hospital and asked what she was doing there. "I'm pulling splinters out of my Jewish seat," replied Bess adding, "We have capital punishment in 50 states and it's called 'a primary.'"

Nipsey Russell's up for a TV series. Joey Heatherton's up for a movie. Hermione Gingold's down with a flu.

Cheryl Ladd's around town with the guy she's supposed to marry. Brian Russell. Ann Baxter's around town with David Brooks of "Can Can." Ed Asner's diet trick is to hit a deli at lunch, order a sandwich on very thin bread, then eat only half. The rest he takes along for dinner. Forget about the calories. This way he saves money, too. Mary Tyler Moore, who has left the Big Orange for the Big Apple told me, "I feel very comfortable with the city." And she's here in New York to stay. Britt Ekland left off vacationing in our town just to fly home for her daughter's birthday.

A Steve Martin burp: "If I weren't funny all the time I wouldn't have any friends." A pair of top, hotshot comedians preferred to hide and cower in their homes inauguration night rather than go to parties or satellite balls; they didn't want people to know Sinatra hadn't invited them to Washington. This way they told friends, "We were working that night."

For the New York inaugural ball at the Waldorf Astoria's Grand Ballroom, Cardinal Cooke made a prayer for peace. Donald O'Connor and his conductor dashed over from rehearsals for "Bring Back Birdie." Anna Moffo flew in from Europe to do "The Star Spangled Banner," and Sammy Cahn shuttled in from the Washington inaugural to repeat his "Thumbs Up America" song. Julie Budd sang "I Love New York" to Mayor Koch. Eartha Kitt came in from California to stay with her daughter, Kitt, a New Yorker, and do a few numbers that knocked the audience cold, and Orson Bean, the town's newest resident, found his tuxedo among his packing crates and did a smash 10 minutes for the 1,500 black-tie guests. Charles Strouse, who wrote "Tomorrow," and Allison Smith, the newest "Annie," did the song for the finale. Emcee Joey Adams introduced such celebs as Reggie Jackson, Walt Frazier, Dick Cavett, Joan Fontaine, Rex Reed, Geoffrey Holder, David Merrick, Virginia Graham, Polly Bergen, Earl Wilson, Ex-Mayors Beame and Lindsay, etc., etc.

From Flip Wilson: "People say I live in the past. Maybe so but that's because it's cheaper!" From Loretta Swit: "I love kids — as long as they're somebody else's."
