Hosts sought for students

Clackamas County families who wish to add an international touch to their lives this summer should apply now to serve as an IFYE host family.

The International 4-H Youth Exchange deadline for applications is April 1. Oregon is expected to host four IFYE representatives this year. Each will spend about three months in the state living and working with host families.

Representatives usually change families about every two or three weeks. An attempt is made to match family interests with those of the visitor. Changes in families are made to give the visitors experience in a variety of settings.

For more information, contact the Clackamas County office of the Oregon State University Extension Service, 256 Warner-Milne Road, Oregon City, OR, 97045, or call 655-8635.
