Boring carnival Saturday

Games, prizes, a cakewalk, a animal walk, a boutique table and lots of food, will all be part of the Boring Grade School carnival to be held at the Naas building from 4 - 8:30 p.m., Saturday.
The carnival, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association is admission free to anyone, according to Linda Mann, coordinator of the event. Pre-tickets for the various games and raffles are selling now at the Naas building until Thursday at eight for $1. Tickets will also be sold on the day of the carnival at six for $1.

Some of the fun-filled activities include the standard cake-walk and an animal walk, where people can walk for one of the 500 stuffed animals made by PTA volunteers for the event.

A Kermit Washington autographed basketball or tennis shoes will be the prize in the raffle. Also to be raffled off is a homemade afghan made by Jan Grenier.
Handicrafters from the area can take advantage of a boutique table set up for selling homemade items and food. The PTA will get 10 percent of all profits made.
