Welcome to SANDY SENTRY

Staff photo

Tom and Phyllis Farrell have purchased the Sandy Sentry store from Gale and Sharon Meier with plans to remodel. The new owners have 20 years experience in the grocery business, including ownership of stores on Fremont and on Clatsop and in Gresham. Tom Farrell also worked in the advertising department of United Grocers which now supplies Sandy Sentry. Farrell also purchased the Sandy supermarket's building from an Ohio life insurance company. The couple first came to the area to live three years ago, when they purchased a cabin near Bowman's. Eventual remodeling plans call for rustic cedar construction along the pioneer theme of modern Sandy architecture.

Mother, son team for exhibit

A pair of Sandy residents are currently exhibiting their work at the Dayspring Gallery at the Camera Connection, 39570 Pioneer Blvd. Elsie Dries and her son, Dennis Dries, are exhibiting some pen and ink drawings and portrait photography for the next few weeks. Mrs. Dries, who has been interested in pen and ink drawing for a number of years and has captured some awards for her efforts, draws inspiration from a variety of subject. The works on display illustrate several buildings. Dennis Dries became interested in portrait photography as a teenager and has recently begun to take the hobby seriously. The gallery is open daily during business hours.

Insulation thrifty, but care urged

Rising energy prices have made many people conscious of the importance of a well-insulated home.

With the rise of the popularity of weatherizing to cut energy costs, some problems do occur, however, according to the Sandy Fire District and those problems can be quite costly.

The largest single-family home fire in the history of the district, a $300,000 loss, occurred because a recessed light fixture had been covered with insulation at some point in the house's history. The insulation, coupled with leaving the light on for seven hours, led to the loss.

According to Fire Marshal Jim Gallagher, there are steps to take to insure that your home is safe from the same hazards of faulty insulation installation.

District residents undoubtedly have insulation in their attics, he said. If you are planning to insulate in the future these are some tips:

Do not cover recessed fixtures or fans. If you have insulation that now covers these units, remove it. At least three inches of air space should be allowed around each fixture, metal chimney or fireplace.

Before installing insulation, walk through the house, checking for recessed fixtures, lights, heat lamps, vent fans or other sources of heat in the ceiling which would be near the insulation in the attic.

Check for the location of metal chimneys or fireplaces. To locate the fixtures in the attic, it may be helpful to turn them on, according to Gallagher. To protect these units from becoming fire hazards, install a permanent sleeve of fine wire or sheet metal to maintain at least three inches clearance between units and insulation.

It should also be high enough so the top clears the insulation by six inches. Clean out areas around units, removing old insulation and dirt.

The site is then ready for application of insulation.

The district issued a word of caution. When working in the attic, be extremely careful not to come in contact with the bare electrical wiring.

In many incidents involving insulation, the material was a brand having both the Underwriters Laboratories and International Conference of Building Officials approval which are based on the tunnel test.

This test is designed to test the rate of surface flame spread. Most incidents, however, result from a smoldering fire. They ignite from a low-temperature heat source and spread by smoldering inside the insulation, away from this heat source until they contact combustible materials.

The surface flame test does not adequately evaluate the potential fire hazard, according to the fire marshal.

Signs of the Last Days

How may we know when we have reached the very last days of earth's HISTORY? Does the BIBLE describe clearly the world and its people in the last days?

1. CAPITAL — LABOR TROUBLES. James 5:4,8

Trouble between capital and labor is predicted for the last days. For fulfillment consult your newspaper.

2. WAR PREPARATIONS. Joel 3:9, 10

The 20th Century has been the bloodiest and most revolutionary in history. And war preparations become more frenzied daily. Do we see THAT TODAY IS OUR WORLD? It is a SIGN OF THE LAST DAYS.

Listen! I Am Coming Soon!

3. DISARMAMENT TALKS. Isa. 2:2-4

The strong peace movements of TODAY and the great URGENCY of the nations to outlaw fearful nuclear weapons of war is a certain fulfillment of this prophecy for the last days.

4. AWAKENING OF THE HEATHEN COUNTRIES. Joel 3:9, 12

The Bible predicted that the SLEEPING heathen countries would become aroused in the LAST DAYS. The sudden awakening of the many nations of AFRICA and ASIA is further evidence that we have reached the LAST DAYS OF EARTH HISTORY. This is a sign of CHRIST'S 2nd COMING.

5. INCREASE OF KNOWLEDGE. Daniel 12:4

The space age makes this one all too obvious today. Even the most skeptical mind must admit that this SIGN is fulfilled. It is said that 80% of the world's total knowledge has been brought forth in the last decade and that 90% of all the scientists who have ever lived are alive today.

Has the BIBLE clearly described our world today?
