

Mountain Festival draws thousands to Sandy area

The Sandy Mountain Festival brought out all kinds of people and costumes last weekend. One of the more popular spots in Meinig Park was the old-time photo booth (top left), where Sandi Poutala took more than 200 photos, including this couple. The winner of the Black Powder Shoot's mountain man costume contest was Preacher Conley (left). Meinig Park was filled with painting exhibits (middle left), shoppers (bottom) and people walking through the forested paths.

photos by Mark Floyd