

Ramps slow accidents

Accidents caused by trucks with mechanical failures, such as brake loss, have been a major concern to transportation officials in recent years.

Oregon, with its many mountain ranges and steep hills, was a fertile area for runaway trucks resulting from brake failures.

"A partial solution," according to H. Scott Coulter, state highway engineer, "was the construction of escape ramps adjacent to some of the main highways with steep hills." One of these was built on Highway 26 near Government Camp.

Last year almost 100 trucks used the six ramps which have been constructed in the state. This is down considerably from the nearly 175 trucks which used the ramps in 1979.

Coulter said he believed one of the contributing causes of this decrease was increased safety inspections begun by the state of Oregon and its neighboring states.

Local gardeners earn awards at lily show

A Sandy woman was honored for her floral arrangement and a local nursery garnered three awards in the 34th annual International Lily Show held recently in Woodburn.

Leona Barnes, 42451 S.E. Wildcat Mountain Drive, won the award for the best "Artistic Design" for her arrangement, "Beautiful Oregon."

The arrangement consisted of a beautiful display of yellow lilies, balanced with driftwood, cedars and native grasses. The display was built on a base of beach sand, interspersed with coral and pines.

Oregon Bulb Farms, 39391 S.E. Lusted Road, was presented the Isabella Preston Trophy for the best lily in the show. The winning stem was a cross of two hybrid lilies, "Chinook" and "Hallmark."

The firm also won the David Griffiths Award for the best stem of an unnamed hybrid seedling grown from seed by the exhibitor. The winning stem won both this award, and the best lily in the show.

The American Horticultural Society Sweepstakes Award Gold Medal was presented to Oregon Bulb Farms for the highest number of first-place ribbons in the show.

The Lily Show is an annual event in which lily enthusiasts from around the world exhibit, look at and learn about lilies. Visitors and exhibitors this year came from Australia, New Zealand, Switzerland, Holland, England, Canada and from throughout the United States.

There were 474 lily stems and 48 artistic displays in the exhibition area.

Emphasis this year was on bicolor lilies, clear bright yellow colors and yellow or orange-colored flowers with small dark purple lines in mid-petal, referred to as brushmarks. Flower size ranged from as small as two inches across to 12 inches across.

Sandy resident Leona Barnes touches up her prize-winning display, "Beautiful Oregon," at the International Lily Show. Her work was selected as the best artistic design in the show.
