Auction planned to help build church

The congregation of a local church wants to build its own place or worship. Rather than going into debt, however, to buy land and build a new church, the congregation is working to raise money ahead of time.

The Gospel of Our Savior Church, which currently meets in the Sandy Grange on Kelso Road, will host an auction this Saturday, Oct. 10, at the grange to kick off its fund-raising activities.

"We think it should be a community church effort to work for what you want," said Claude Davis, chairman of the auction committee. "We'd rather see the church group work for something, then it will appreciate it more."

The 100-member congregation has a full day of activities planned for its inaugural fund-raiser, Davis said, and everyone is involved.

Browsing through the merchandise will begin at 10 a.m.

At noon, a preview of the merchandise will begin and at 1 p.m. the auction, with auctioneer Tom Cox, will begin.

Davis reported that quilts, antiques and sporting goods will be among the items on hand. Anyone who would like to make a donation may call 622-3843 (evenings) or 668-6448 to make arrangements for a church member to stop by for convenient pick-up.

Davis said that the church would also accept items to be sold on a commission basis.
