Local groups help area rest homes celebrate

A number of groups contributed in making the holidays successful for residents of the Orchard Crest and St. Jude Nursing Homes.

"We really had a delightful Christmas because of all of them," said Martha McGuire, Orchard Crest director.

Marilee Swarthout, director at St. Jude's, was equally pleased.

Members of the Community Presbyterian Church contributed fruit to both rest homes.

Carolers that visited Orchard Crest included the Girl Scouts, the Ridge Riders Equestrian Club and Chapel of the Hills Church.

"That was a great gift for these people," McGuire said.

The Saviour of our Gospel Community Church and the Good Sheppard Church caroled and took gifts to Orchard Crest.

The VFW auxiliary visited Orchard Crest and St. Jude's, serving ice cream and bringing Santa Claus along.

The Salvation Army distributed copies of its magazine, "War Cry," at Orchard Crest, and also brought gifts.

The Eagle Creek Grange also visited Orchard Crest, and brought apples, oranges and other gifts.

The Cottrell seventh graders did a nice job of caroling at Orchard Crest, according to McGuire. And, they also brought gifts.

For the third year the Timberline Council of Telephone Volunteers performed at St. Jude's. Swarthout called the performances "near professional. They have some really, really good performers."

The group spent three to four hours at St. Jude's, bringing nice gifts and visiting residents unable to attend their "complete" party.

Scout Troop 718 caroled, and donated two wall decorations, a Santa Claus and a wreath.

The Mt. Hood Lions Auxiliary also gave gifts at St. Jude's.

Scout Troop 832 caroled and gave Christmas decorations.

Students from Rivermill Elementary School in Estacada visited St. Jude's, and gave each resident a long-stemmed carnation.

"It was beautiful, it really was," said Swarthout. She said the touching and the eye-to-eye contact that went along with the giving of the carnations "was very special for them."

The Sandy Community Players caroled at St. Jude's. "It was absolutely beautiful," Swarthout said, commenting on the good mix of voices and harmony.

Trees were donated at St.

Jude's by Mrs. Catherine DeVere and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Goracke, all of Sandy.

A gingerbread house was given by Warren Price of Gresham.

Sandy Rexall gave candy, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hallgren of Sandy also gave cookies and candy.

Children involved with the Silver Threads group decorated St. Jude's.

'82-83 budget main item at ESD's Jan. 18 board meeting

The 1982-83 proposed budget will be the major item on the agenda when Clackamas Education Service District's board and budget committee meet Jan. 18, according to ESD Superintendent Bob Burns.

During the meeting the committee will review the entire ESD general fund budget, program by program, according to Burns.

The ESD is asking for $7.5 million to pay for general fund programs during the coming fiscal year. The proposed budget is within the ESD's tax base passed last spring and the six percent statutory limitation.

The budget committee is made up of seven elected ESD board members plus seven more county residents appointed to three-year terms.

The purpose of the committee is to review the budget to insure that requested funding levels are both "adequate and affordable," according to Burns.

"I feel the budget we are proposing meets both these tests," Burns said. "This budget will maintain ESD programs at the current level, but we are not going to add any new programs or personnel."

"The 1982-83 budget represents the smallest percent increase over the previous year of any ESD budget in over a decade," he added. "Holding the line on growth was particularly hard this year since tight budgets at the local district level resulted in increased demands for service from the ESD.

"I should add that our board chose not to levy $186,000 that legally could have been added to our levy this year. In light of the economy, I think they have shown particular budgetary restraint and prudence."

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the boardroom of the ESD offices in the Marian Hall on the Marylhurst Education Center campus.

AMA accredits facility

The Clackamas County Corrections Facility received the American Medical Association Certificate of Accreditation in a ceremony held in the Oregon State Capitol recently.

Governor Victor Atiyeh presented the AMA certification to Sheriff Paul McAllister, and Dr. Chuck Jenike and Nurse-Practitioner Phyllis Flowers of the corrections facility medical staff.

According to James Hamer, program coordinator, the health care certification was awarded following 15 months of work by the corrections staff and medical personnel in adopting policies and procedures to meet the AMA standards of corrections health care.

The certificate of accreditation became effective July 1, 1981, for a two-year period.

Rep. Wayne Fawbush ASKS:

Where can we find $239 million for Oregon's budget?

Please take a moment to fill out this questionnaire and return it to me:

Some information about your tax money:

- Nearly half of the state general fund goes to support local school districts and property tax relief.
- If the state cuts back support to local schools or property tax relief, you will pay higher property taxes to maintain the same services.
- Cutting support to higher education will mean limiting enrollments, higher tuitions and elimination of some programs.
- Cutting human resource budgets will mean shifting certain costs from the state to individuals. For example, cutting funds to pay for medical care of people on general assistance means that hospital costs and insurance rates will go up to make up for loss of state funds.
