

Ballot measures await voter OK

A variety of ballot measures will face Oregon voters at the polls this Tuesday.

Here is a look at the five measures:

BALLOT MEASURE 1

Passage of Ballot Measure 1 would allow the state to lend funds to communities to build water projects for municipal use.

The law now permits the state to borrow up to 1 1/2 percent of the true cash value of all property in the state to fund secured loans for building irrigation and drainage projects.

This measure would permit up to half of these funds to be lent to towns of less than 30,000 to pay for building municipal water projects. Approximately $1.1 billion is now available.

BALLOT MEASURE 2

Ballot Measure 2 would allow additional loans to be made for housing for disabled persons.

Presently, the state may sell bonds to make loans to finance multifamily housing for low-income elderly persons. The measure repeals the low-income restriction and allows loans for multi-family housing for disabled persons.

The measure would also permit state loans to elderly persons to buy ownership interest in single units in multifamily housing. It doesn't increase the state's bonding power.

BALLOT MEASURE 3

A Constitutional amendment to permit the state to sell bonds to acquire, build, equip or improve corrections facilities is the topic of Ballot Measure 3.

Bond issuance could not exceed $60 million. The Legislature would provide for payment of the bonds.

The facilities, already specified, would include one in the Portland tri-county area with a 500-bed capacity and another in the mid-Willamette Valley built for 320 prisoners. Both would be for low- and medium-risk offenders.

An unspecified number of forest work camps would also be built and work would be done in the penitentiary. The remaining funds would go to to cities and counties.

BALLOT MEASURE 4

Ballot Measure 4 would increase truck and commercial vehicle taxes and motor vehicle fuel taxes. The money would be used for road repair, improvement and construction.

Commercial vehicle highway taxes would jump an average of 12.5 percent this July, 11.1 percent in July 1983 and 10 percent in July 1984.

The state gas tax is now 8 cents a gallon. It would jump a penny in each of the next three Julys.

BALLOT MEASURE 5

This measure would determine who appoints the chief justice of the Oregon Supreme Court—the governor or the judges of the court.

Passage of the measure would mean the chief justice would be appointed by the governor, instead of the judges of the court. He would be required to seek the judges' opinion in making an appointment. They could remove the chief justice, but the governor couldn't.

Inside the church

Missionary plans pair of visits

Orieda Chastagner will be the featured speaker at Sandy Assembly of God this Sunday evening, May 16, at 6 p.m.

She will also share "Mothers of the World" with the ladies at Joy Fellowship this Monday evening at 7 p.m.

She and her husband were serving as missionaries to Upper Volta, West Africa, when he was killed in an automobile accident just before they were to return home on furlough.

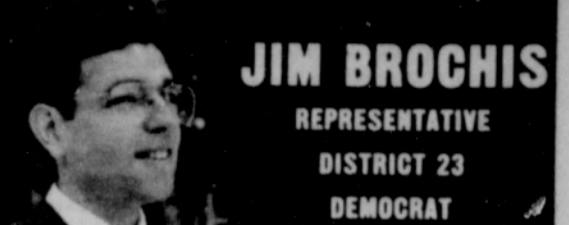

As the young mother of three children, she made the decision to return to Upper Volta and has now worked there for more than 18 years.

opening up two extension offices, overseeing the translation of ICI books and opening a new church in the northwest part of Ouagadougou.

She has been involved in

"TO ME, HONESTY AND COMMON SENSE MEAN MORE THAN PARTY LABELS OR PHILOSOPHICAL VIEW POINTS. I BASE DECISIONS ON THE FACTS, AND AS YOUR EMPLOYEE IN THE LEGISLATURE, I WOULD CONTINUE THIS APPROACH."

Baha's tap assembly

The Baha'is of Sandy elected members of its local Spiritual Assembly which serve for one year.

The new assembly members include Skye and Jane Lininger, Michael Justman, Stella and Michael Hemmer, Bill and Rene Knight-Weiler, Bonnie and Ralph Baird.

Wherever as many as nine Baha'is age 21 or older live in an area of local government, a Baha'i Spiritual Assembly is formed by joint declaration if there are nine only, and by election if there are more than nine.

These assemblies form the bedrock upon which the Administrative Order stands.

Weight loss clinic set

The Scientific Weight Control Class will be held at the Sandy Adventist Community Center May 17-20 at 7 p.m.

The class has no diets or lists of do's and don'ts. It offers guidelines for participants to work out their own program to fit their wants and values.

The weight control class hopes to help overweight persons admit their condition and accept it. Admitting means learning the general direction of the condition and acceptance calls for inner resignation to the truth.

A $15 fee includes the six-week exercise class.

Jubilee meets Monday

Flair," the mother-daughter Jubilee this Monday, May 17, will be a special night of special teachers.

Kim Stahl, of Hair After in Gresham, will demonstrate hair care. Liz Van Beek will share makeup ideas. Roberta Harlan, longtime "stretch and sew" instructor from Boring, will do a class on sewing.

A fashion show, narrated by Evelyn McLellan, will conclude the program. Jubilee meets at Living Way Fellowship, 17275 Strauss St., in Sandy from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Duncan cites record in school race

When Verne Duncan, superintendent of public instruction, was first elected in 1974 his goal was to spend a half a day a week in a school setting.

Duncan, who visited Kelso School last week, said he's met or exceeded that goal.

Education plays an important role in the state's ability to attract business, Duncan contends, it's important to maintain a high standard of education.

"We'll have to do a better job with what money we have," he said, a better job

"than we ever have."

"We're really in for some tight times," Duncan said of the fact that just 26 percent of the combination A-B ballots passed in March elections.

Schools may be holding the budget down but will still have to ask for money from local taxpayers, he said.

One of the improvements he's seen in schools, and he doesn't necessarily take credit for it, is the improvement in discipline.

"It's rare for me to go into a school and for it to be in disarray," Duncan said.

Today's students are "more conservative—in a good way, and more serious minded."

The programs for handicapped students are significantly better than when he entered office, and vocational education and talented and gifted programs have also come a long way, he said.

"I hope we look back and say this was a decade of excellence. That's my goal."

Duncan is a former superintendent of the Clackamas County Intermediate Education District.

Others running for the position include Lydia Pat Graham, a mathematics instructor in secondary schools for 20 years; Bill Kendrick, superintendent of Salem Public Schools since 1972; Eugene Lehn, a teacher; Rod Monroe, a high school teacher and three-term state senator, and Jack Reynolds, a small businessman and former state chairman of the Oregon Veterans Political Action Committee.

Cinema, school plan summer of movies

Mt. Hood Cinema in Gresham and Cottrell School are teaming up this summer to bring a series of matinees to the theater for young audiences.

This summer they have scheduled a supervised program for area children. They are offering 15 G-rated children's motion pictures for $4.50. In past years, there have been just 10 movies for the same price.

The first 12 shows will be presented every Wednesday and Thursday at 1:15 and 3:45 p.m. The remaining three films will be shown on Saturdays and Sundays in September.

All parents accompanied with paying children will be admitted free, but all babysitters must purchase admission tickets.

Tickets can be purchased at the Cottrell School offices, in the East or West Buildings.

Movies that will be screened this summer are "The Yearling," "Godzilla on Monster Island," "Tom Sawyer," "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," "Time Machine," "Tom Thumb," "Wizard of Oz," "Lassie Come Home," "Charlotte's Web," "Mr. Superinvisible," "Black Beauty," "Around the World and Under the Sea," "The Magic of Lassie," "My Friend Flicka" and "Gypsy Colt."
