Services planned for area residents

James Bassett

Funeral services will be held today for retired Air Force Master Sgt. James R. Bassett in the chapel of Sandy Funeral home at 11 a.m. Committal, with full military honors, will follow at Willamette National Cemetery in Portland.

Mr. Bassett died in June 28 in Portland at 54 years of age.

Born June 9, 1928 in Brockton, Mass., he served in both the Army and Navy before beginning his Air Force career. He retired in 1964 and worked for the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington and Montana.

He moved to Sandy in 1974 and married Ellen Stewart in 1975. He was a member of the Sandy VFW Post 4273, Polson, Mont., Elks Lodge and the Air Force Sergeant's Association.

He is survived by his wife, Ellen; two sons, James and Robert, both in Montana; seven step-children, Steve Purvis, Kimberly Lagato, Judy Zogg, Janet Morrow, Daniel Gannon, Owen Gannon and Shirley Moffet; three sisters, Kathleen Pratt, Mary Ellen Woodman and Joan Hodgkins, and 13 grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials be made to Mt. Hood Hospice in his memory.

Roderic Stroup

Funeral services for Roderic V. Stroup were held Tuesday in the chapel of Sandy Funeral Home.

Private interment was at Willamette National Cemetery in Portland.

Mr. Stroup, who had resided in this area for the past 11 years, died June 25 in Sandy. He was 98.

Born March 23, 1884 in Deep Creek, Wash., he entered the U.S. Army at an early age and served in World War I.

After his discharge, he returned to the Spokane area where he had been raised. He married Jennie Milliken in Idaho in 1923.

They moved to Oregon where he worked at various occupations. He was employed in the shipyards and later worked as a millwright, from which he retired in 1961.

He was preceded in death in 1963. He lived in the Portland area until 1971 when he moved to Sandy to live near his daughter.

He is survived by his daughter, Vivian Johnstone of Portland; six grandchildren, and 13 great-grandchildren.

Alice Schmale

Boring area resident Alice Schmale died at her home June 25. She was 61.

Born Alice Lucille Peake on May 3, 1921 in Portland, she began her education in the Lents area. Her family moved to Damascus where she completed her schooling.

She married Alvin Schmale on May 10, 1940 in Washington. Shortly after the marriage, they moved to Boring where she and her husband farmed and raised their family.

Mrs. Schmale enjoyed working on their farm with the horses and other animals.

She is survived by her husband, Alvin; three sons, Stanley of Eagle Creek, Steven of Sandy and Gary of Boring; a daughter, Darlene Bush of Tigard; four sisters, Anabel Brooks of Gresham, Betty Tracy and Ellen Fuzi, both of Portland, and Gladys Krieger of Estacada, and nine grandchildren.

Services were held Wednesday in the chapel of Sandy Funeral Home. Vault interment was at Sandy Ridge Cemetery.

Paul Snyder

Funeral services for Paul E. Snyder were held Wednesday in the chapel of Sandy Funeral Home.

Private interment was at Mt. View Cemetery in Oregon City.

Mr. Snyder died in a Clackamas hospital June 26. He was 68.

Born Oct. 12, 1913 in Polk County, Neb., he completed high school after moving to Silverton.

He worked in the Zigzag area until 1941 when he entered the U.S. Army. After his discharge in 1945, he returned to the Boring area to work in a lumber mill until he went to work for the state Transportation Division in the late 1960s.

After his retirement in 1977, he spent his time farming and working at a golf course.

He is survived by his friend, Gladys Gibson of Boring; brothers, Daniel of Salem, James of Estacada, Abe of Sandy and Russell of Boring, and sisters, Blanche Fryberger of Washington, Madeline Weigel of Arkansas, Ethel Carson of Nebraska, Verna Orr of Washington and Mary Etta Johnson of California.

'Ugliness' wins Hawaiian trip

by DAN DILLON

Gene Hoerling is proof that people can go places with their looks. More than 40 years ago he enlisted in the U.S. Army, hoping for a Hawaiian assignment, but he got re-routed.

"I joined the Army in '40 to over there and I ended up in Panama," he said. "That was 40 years ago, so I guess I'm finally going to make it."

Late this fall Hoerling and his wife, Elaine, will travel to the islands on the strength of his newly-acquired—albeit dubious—distinction, "Portland Metro Area's Ugliest Bartender."

The vacation was first prize in the month-long promotion to raise funds to fight multiple sclerosis.

Hoerling collected 16,194 votes, easily out-distancing his closest competitor by more than 5,500 votes.

The campaign was to elect the metro area's ugliest bartender. The judges in the reverse beauty contest were bar patrons. By voting for the ugliest bartender, they helped fight multiple sclerosis, the most common neurological disease among young adults.

Bartenders received one vote for each 25 cents they collected during the four-week voting period. More than $25,000 was raised to further multiple sclerosis research and 4273 for just over a year and a half. Hoerling didn't win the contest involving some 85 area drinking establishments on looks alone. He and members of the Post, particularly his campaign manager Don Blair, spent a lot of time with fundraisers to help in the election.

"All the money came out of the Post," Hoerling said.

They staged chili feeds, clam chowder feeds and an antique sale. Greyhound Broadway Bill's earnings at the Multnomah Kennel Club were donated to the pot. The Post held a pool tournament and singer Roger Day donated his time and played one evening in the club.

A kissing booth at the Post was also successful. "We raised a lot of money with that," Hoerling said.

One Post member, Wayne Bodley, suffers from multiple sclerosis and dropped by for a visit during the campaign. Hoerling said.

While the week-long trip to Hawaii is coming 40 years after he intended to be there, Hoerling is looking forward to visiting friends in the islands he hasn't seen for awhile and getting away from the rains of October or November; he hasn't finalized when they will take the trip.

While there, the Hoerlings will stay in a condominium, courtesy of Vacation Villages and Hawaiian Islands Resorts. Pacific Highway Travel will pick up the air fare.

Climber's body recovered

The body of the mountain climber swept to his death by an avalanche June 20 on Mt. Hood was recovered from the mountain's southwest slope last Wednesday as weather cooperated to complete its operation.

The body of Hugh Hake, 45, of Olympia, Wash., killed after a wall of ice broke loose near the 9,500-foot level, was recovered three days after the accident.

Earlier attempts by air and ground crews from the U.S. Air Force Reserve's 304th Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron of Portland, were unsuccessful due to dangerous conditions which existed on the mountain.

Unusually warm temperatures, coupled with a heavy thunder storm that dropped an inch of rain the day before the mishap, weakened the heavy snows on the steep slopes.

Rescuers reported almost continuous avalanches and rock slides during rescue operations. Ice, the size of Volkswagens, reportedly fell around them at 15-minute intervals of every 10 minutes.

Wednesday morning at 3:30 a.m., a ground crew from the 304th Squadron left Timberline Lodge when conditions on the mountain had stabilized.

"Like during the past two weeks," said Lt. Lonnie Ryan, of the Clackamas County Sheriff's Department, "they had to contend with sliding rocks, avalanches, and blocks of ice which pulled away from the mountain's slopes."

Eight hours later, Hake's body was carried down the mountain to where a snowplow transported it to Timberline Lodge.

12.5% INTEREST G.M.A.C. LEASE JULY ONLY

You may not lease a new Chevrolet from Carlson Chevrolet through G.M.A.C. at 12.5% (A.P.R.). This is 5.6% LESS than the normal rate for either a purchase or a lease!

On a $16,000 purchase with the same $739.97 down, your lease payments for 48 months would be $339.97 a month, as compared to $448.26 on a purchase! This is $108.29 LESS each month for 48 months! At the end of 48 months, you may purchase this vehicle for about $5,450.

By comparing the identical lease at 12.5% A.P.R., as compared to 18.8% A.P.R., you would save $53.34 a month just on interest expense!

This program is sponsored by General Motors for the month of July ONLY, so if you are contemplating the purchase of a new Chevrolet, it would be very wise to come see Carlson Chevrolet, so that we can assure you that today it is wiser to lease.
