At General Telephone, we know that there's more to communications than just keeping the complex telephone network humming. That's a big job in itself. But there's more. Much more.

Communications also means keeping in touch with the community. Communicating what's happening now and what will be happening tomorrow.

The General Telephone Speakers Bureau brings exactly that kind of conversation to you. With timely programs that are both interesting and entertaining. And they're all free.

Each program is approximately 20 minutes in length and is presented by an employee member of our Speakers Bureau.

COMMUNICATIONS OF THE FUTURE—explores the "Quiet Revolution" that is changing the way we do business, educate our children and spend our leisure time.

THEY WIRED THE WORLD TOGETHER—talks about the pioneers who developed our telephone system, and offers a glimpse of future technologies.

HEAR THE LIGHT—presents "fiber optics," the system that is radically changing our existing mode of voice, data and video communications.

COMMUNICATIONS FOR EVERYONE—discusses the specialized communications equipment that enables sight, hearing and motion impaired customers to cross the communications barrier.

Let us bring some good conversation to your next program. Simply call our Speakers Bureau coordinator at 629-2457. And call collect. It will be nice talking to you.
