Alice (Judy Sheppard) and James (Gary Lange) peruse his scrapbook of clippings of his exploits as a burglar in a scene from "The White Sheep of the Family," a Sandy Community Players' production opening tomorrow evening.

'White Sheep' offers family laughs

by DAN DILLON

There's one in every crowd.

He's the misfit, the square peg in a round hole, the white sheep of the family.

Peter Winter becomes an outsider in his own home when he develops a problem. He wants to hide the nefarious habits of his seemingly-proper British family from "one of the public," Angela, his fiance.

How he goes about it spins the tale of "The White Sheep of the Family," a comedy by L. du Garde Peach and Ian Hay, the latest Sandy Community Players presentation.

The family comedy opens SCP's fifth season of bringing live theater to Sandy audiences.

A very nice, upper-class family in London, the Winters are the shoplifting mother Alice, father James, a burglar; a pickpocket daughter named Pat, and son Peter, an expert forger.

Even Janet the maid, played by Sandy High School student Suzanne Delaney, is into the family act, learning to become a pickpocket.

The play features Judy Sheppard as Alice and Gary Lange as James. Craig Thacker is Peter and Tomi Griffin plays Angela.

Other cast members are Linda Wittoman, who is making her SCP debut as the vicar's wife, Mrs. Wembley; Donna Nash as the pickpocket daughter; Noel Allen as Sam Jackson, an "international broker" or, if you will, a fence, and Peter Sheppard as Assistant Police Commissioner Preston.

Doris Sheik returns to lend a hand with the Players as director. A veteran of several community theater groups in the Portland area, she directed the SCP production "Lovers and Other Strangers" this summer.

Jan Jacqua produced the play.

The three-act family production opens tomorrow evening with a special Dollar Night performance with all admissions $1. Curtain time will be 8 p.m.

The play will run Fridays and Saturdays through Nov. 6.

Tickets are $4 for adults, $2.50 for students and senior citizens.

Crownover heads local UN Day

Each year the United Nations Association of the United States of America seeks to encourage Americans to focus attention on special concerns of the world family of nations through observance of United Nations Day.

This year the United Nations' theme is "The UN: Improving the Quality of Life." Oregon is joining other states to sponsor activities which relate to the theme, including contact with organizations representing aging, disarmament and environment.

Margaret Crownover, member of the Sandy Library Board and former city librarian, was appointed by Mayor Ruth Loundree to serve as the mayor's honorary UN Day chairperson for the Sandy community.

This Friday, Oct. 22, will be the celebration of the 37th anniversary of the United Nations Charter in San Francisco.

"I'm old-fashioned enough to believe that government should be our ally, our friend, somebody who cooperates with us....not simply something that regulates our lives at an ever-increasing cost."
