Jenny, Thomas and George Yang perform July 24 at Sandy Community Presbyterian Church.

Young musicians entertain

A popular trio of young musicians will present a return concert of piano and violin classical music July 24 in the sanctuary of the Sandy Community Presbyterian Church at 7 p.m.

George, Jenny and Thomas Yang from Seattle will present a program of piano solos, duets, trios and quartets in addition to violin duets and concertos. They will be assisted by their piano teacher, John Van Lierop Jr., head of the West Seattle Piano and Organ Studio. His father is the Rev. John Van Lierop, pastor of the Sandy Community Presbyterian Church. The concert is open to the public. The trio have won a host of awards and are currently enrolled in the Gifted Individual Progress Program at Washington Middle School in Seattle.

Living Way Fellowship hosts music ministry

A California couple who uses music to minister to churches around the country will appear next week in Sandy.

Ken and LaVelle Hyde will present their "Concert to the Church Family" on July 24 at Living Way Fellowship, 17275 Strauss Ave., at 10 a.m.

The Hydes have pastored churches in Kansas, Washington, California, and served as ministers of youth in Portland with 300 young people under them.

They toured the United States for three years and appeared on Channel 40 with Rev. Jack Hayford of Church on the Way.

Orient Drive hosts vacation Bible school

Vacation Bible School at Orient Drive Baptist Church wants to help answer children's questions about "God's Love."

Children can learn answers to these questions, "What do I need to thank God for?" (ages 4-5); "How do I know God loves and cares for me?" (ages 6-7); "How do I know God and why do I need to obey him?" (ages 8-9), and "How is God my helper?" (ages 10-11).

The invitation is to the community by the Vacation Bible School staff of the church at 15150 SE Orient Drive, two and a half miles from Sandy.

The school runs five days, July 18-22, from 9 a.m. to noon and is for children 4-11 years old. Refreshments will be provided daily.

Instruction will include Bible stories, music, crafts, memory verses and games. The children will work during the week to prepare a program for their families and friends. It will be presented the evening of July 22.

AFRICA

Africa has changed tremendously over the years. As often happens, traditional ways of life sometimes have been devalued in favor of modern advances. Tour programs which focus on the rich cultures of indigenous peoples are available.

Exciting dances, stunning art, colorful costumes, intriguing rites, ancient religions, and interesting architecture comprise the magic that awaits you in West Africa. Such multifaceted cultures attained heights comparable to those of Europe. As early as 1500, traveling merchants reported that Tombouctoo, then center of book trade, included numerous scientists and scholars among its population of 40,000.

It is indeed a pity that today so many visitors to Africa do not avail themselves of the opportunity to observe Africa's heritage as depicted by such diverse tribes as the Kirdi and the Bororo in the Cameroons, the Dogon and the Peul in Mali, the Ewe and the Somba-Temberma of Togo. While all of these countries are well into the 20th century in terms of development, many of their native peoples have clung to age-old customs with a fierce reverence. This high regard for tradition has resulted in the successful preservation of incredibly fascinating ways of life.
