Above: Tim Callister and Sean McNerney have a discussion over the affections of Tiffany Griffin in SUHS's production of "Feiffer's People." Below: Andy Dieterich and Eric Hodgson are cast in contrasting roles in the same play. Two shows will debut this weekend. "Feiffer's People" will play Feb. 28, March 2 and 8 at 8 p.m. in the SUHS commons. "Out of the Frying Pan" will play March 1, 7 and 9.

Determined

The Sandy Grade School carnival and chili feed has been plagued by inclement weather, resulting in two cancellations. These clowns are holding up a sign that probably reflects the attitudes of the organizers well — carnival or bust. The chili feed will be held from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the school, and the carnival will last till 9. Pictured in back is Nolan O'Meara. In front is Aaron O'Meara, left, and Kelly Key.

Get plants to bloom every month

Some plants blooming in the yard almost every month of the year? It sounds like a landscaper's dream.

However, with careful selection from the wealth of ornamental plants available, one can almost ensure around-the-year blooming of various plants in the home landscape.

One group of ornamental plants that can supply continuous color to the yard are the heathers. Heather, and heather-like plants include those that belong to the Calluna, Erica and Daboecia genera.

From the 50 or more varieties included in these categories, you can plan a yard landscape that would have color any month of the year.

One of the earliest to bloom is the Erica carnea variety, "Springwood White," and its close relative, "Springwood Pink." These heathers come into bloom during January in mild climate areas and will bloom until mid-spring when the variety "Vivelli" comes into bloom with carman red blossoms.

During the summer months, Calluna vulgaris varieties "H.E. Beale," "Mrs. Pat," and "Country Wicklow" come into bloom. At the same time, the Calluna vulgaris varieties "Goldleaf" and "Aureafolia" will be exhibiting the colorful foliage that makes these plants so popular.

For the rock gardens and intimate gardens where you can enjoy the individual blooms, plant Daboecia cantabrica, the Irish heath, that gives pink to deep red, urn-shaped flowers in clusters over the plant.

Heather sometimes gets a bad name because when left to its own devices, it becomes rangy, open in the center and has fewer and fewer blooms.

The way to avoid this and keep the heather vigorous and healthy is to prune the plants severely right after they finish blooming. With a pruning shear or hedge clipper, prune the old blossoms off, cutting the branches just below the bloom clusters. This gives the plants the "haircut" they need to stimulate new shoots and more blossoms for the next year.

WHO CARES IF YOUR COMPANY HEALTH INSURANCE COSTS KEEP GOING UP?

PACC cares.

You're concerned about the rising costs of medical care.

That's why PACC offers a variety of plans, each with its own specific advantages and tailored to your company's specific needs.

In your case, that may mean a group comprehensive major medical plan. Or an H.M.O. plan.

We can also join a number of small businesses under one overall plan, giving you the advantages of large group benefits and prices.

That's because we're experts at assembling the right combination of benefits to meet the requirements of our insured members. At rates that are very competitive.

After all, PACC has been providing a wide variety of health insurance plans since 1938. So we think of the companies and people we serve as long-time neighbors and friends.

Find out the benefits and plans PACC can offer your company. Call PACC today, or consult your agent or broker.
