Face-off with Grimsley

10 PRINT "WHY? IT'S A RIPOFF!"
20 WHY? :GOTO 10

Slowly he typed the last zero on the computer keyboard and then typed RUN. ?SYNTAX ERROR IN 10 flashed onto the screen and jarred Joe Beckley back into the world of reality.

Joe typed out his angry thoughts in abusive comic book language — @#+(%#!, GRIZZLY GRIMSLEY — and then cleared the screen. He turned his machine off and walked along the row of terminals. Stopping at the last terminal, he was somewhat cheered to see nickel-sized letters in alternating red, white and blue proclaiming, MR. GRIMSLEY SHOULD DRINK HIS HYDROCHLORIC ACID SO WE CAN HAVE SOMETHING WORTH-WHILE TO DISSECT!

"You ain't kiddin'," Joe mumbled.

Mike Piers, a good friend and an even better brain, looked up from the computer. He pushed up his glasses and spoke. "The bum gave me a D on that test and a C for the quarter. Me, the brain of old Mac' High. Why, it's like flunking Shakespeare in English lit!"

Joe wasn't exactly a top honors student like Mike, but he'd never received below a C on his report card. Wordlessly he reached into his pocket and pulled out a slip of paper which he dropped in front of Mike.

Mike unfolded the paper, glanced over it and handed it back to Joe. "What's this school coming to when they give us these kinds of grades?"

Joe shrugged and jammed the paper back into his pocket. "I'm going down there right now to give him a piece of my mind."

"Careful, Joe, knowin' your parents, that D is gonna give you enough trouble."

"Yeah, yeah," Joe said. He began walking out but stopped when he heard a sharp computer bleep. He turned and saw the rest of Mike's program come onto the screen.

ADVANCED CHEMISTRY IS TOO ADVANCED FOR ME!

"Joe, make sure your censor edits your thoughts. That Grimsley's a mind reader," said Mike.

Joe nodded dejectedly and walked out of the room.

Joe practiced what he was going to say a dozen times before he knocked on the door of Room 107, Advanced Chemistry, the cave of Grizzly Grimsley. Joe quickly glanced around the room. The pale yellow walls, stained lab tables and grizzly teacher made the room known school-wide as the slime-pit.
