

WHAT'S happening

Dave, Maseo and Posdnuos comprise the legendary group of hip-hop forefathers De La Soul. In 1989 they burst onto the scene with "Me, Myself and I" off the album 3 Feet High and Rising, one of the genre's best records ever. In a career spanning over a decade, De La has created a list of LPs, EPs and singles that line record crates from LA to the UK. Timeless: the Singles Collection, De La Soul's newest album, includes some of the best A-side tracks from the years gone by. De La plays at the McDonald Theatre. See Monday Calendar.

Alberta Adams, Detroit's Queen of the Blues, will perform at the Vet's Club Ballroom. Adams, on tour to promote her new CD recorded with her touring band, RJ's Rhythm Rockers, plays after the crowd is warmed up by The Vipers with Deb Cleveland. Born in the early 1920s in Indianapolis, Adams has since performed with greats Duke Ellington, Eddie Vinson and T-Bone Walker. See Saturday Calendar.

Forty years ago on Aug. 28, more than 250,000 people joined the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, and Martin Luther King Jr. gave his "I Have a Dream" speech. Eugene marchers mark the progress that has been made and renew their commitment to social justice at 5:30 pm in the east Autzen Stadium parking lot. Community elders and human rights activists will lead the MLK Jr. March, "Fulfill the Dream! Work for Peace, Justice and Reconciliation," along MLK Jr. Blvd., celebrating the renaming of the street. The 6:30 pm Cuthbert Amphitheater program includes speeches, music and a reading of King's famous speech. See Thursday, Aug. 28 Calendar.
