

WHAT'S happening

Tracy Grammer (right) is playing two nights at Café Paradiso to benefit Friends of KRVM. She's also doing a performance and signing at CD world, keeping the troubadour dream alive. Grammer sings many songs by the late Dave Carter, laying back on the complexity of his lyrics, while using her musicianship to deliver an extra emotional and intellectual edge. See Friday and Saturday Calendar.

Faith Rahill's having her annual two-day show and sale of her beautiful ceramics at 775 W. 26th Ave. Find bowls, plates, platters and more. It's an awaited event, so go early for best selection. See Saturday and Sunday Calendar.

Feel the beat at the Eugene World Rhythm Festival, from 11 am to 6 pm at Amazon Community Center and Park. The festival features musical and movement workshops for kids and adults, as well as performances and a marketplace. Get your groove on, yo. See Sunday Calendar.

The 2004 Empty Bowl Sale (left) is a bowl sale at the Professional Building, between Oak and Pearl Streets on E. Broadway Ave. Benefiting FOOD for Lane Co., the bowls (donated by local clay, wood and glass artists) sell out each and every year, in only an hour-and-a-half. Every bowl purchased comes with a gift certificate for a free bowl of soup from a local restaurant. Give to a good cause; fill your kitchen shelves, and your belly too! See Friday Calendar.

First Friday Artwalk features a free guided tour of downtown art galleries and visual arts attractions. This week's artwalk begins at 5:30 pm with figurative watercolors by Erin Williams at Café Paradiso. Then at 5:50 pm it's a showcase of new works by local artists at DIVA (Downtown Initiative for the Visual Arts). At 6:10 pm the walk moves to the New Zone Arts Collective, for A Gallery Without Walls. At 6:30 pm it's work by Tanaka Ryohei, Her Xue-Sheng, Su Xin-Ping and other artists at the White Lotus Gallery. The last stop is at the Jacobs Gallery for All in the Family (below), an exhibit celebrating artists who live and work in a family with other artists. Here's a collage of work exhibited in All in the Family. See Friday Calendar.
