

WHAT'S happening

Putumayo's Latinas: Women of Latin America hits the Silva Concert Hall this week. This will be a hot evening of soulful, inspirational Latin American music, with contemporary and traditional tunes, sung with mucho gusto by three divas - Totó la Momposina from Columbia, Mariana Montalvo from Chile and Beló Velloso (pictured) from Brazil. Guaranteed to make you feel good! See Sunday calendar.

From three women to one, locally-born singer/songwriter Elizabeth Cable (left) presents a one-woman show in celebration of the 9th anniversary of Tsunami Books. Free music + a great performer = a wonderful time. See Saturday calendar.

Think you're up to re-writing Shakespeare? Tempest (right), being performed this month at the Lord Leebrick Theatre, is an original adaptation of the Bard's last play. Haunting, lyrical, with themes as diverse as love and mortality...who could resist? See Friday calendar.

Listen to live rock bands and help a guy out. A fund-raising concert happening at The Campbell Club for former EW Happening Person Hollis Shostrom, a go-getter with cerebral palsy. www.perpetualco-op.com. See Saturday calendar.

The 18th Annual Oregon Book Awards take place at the Scottish Rite Center in Portland, with local author Lauren Kessler up for a prize, as well as other area authors Tracy Daugherty, Michael Curtis Ford and Marjorie Sandor. See Thursday calendar.

The Fabulous Thunderbirds do that Southern rock thing at The Jungle on Sunday; three-time Grammy winner Bruce Hornsby plays the McDonald Theatre Monday in support of his latest album; once again, Eugene is spoiled for choice!
