Burton Custom Snowboard is the "king of the all-mountain ride." Just ask the guys at Bergs Ski and Snowboard Shop. Add the "bling bling" (Burton Cartel) of bindings, and the set costs $698. Just in time for snow season.

Merrell Jungle Moccasins are comfortable day-to-day life, but will suffice when the eager outdoor enthusiast encounters unexpected adventures. Shoe-a-holic: $64.99.

100 Hikes Travel Guide: Oregon Coast and Coast Range is a complete guide of hiking trails every naturalist will love to explore. J. Michaels Books: $14.95.

Burton AK Essence Jacket. Boardsports Inc.: $189.99.

Burton Ronin Vent Pant. Boardsports Inc.: $149.99.

Anon Figment Goggles are one of the most popular pairs at Boardsports Inc.: $79.99.

Specialized RockHopper: $850 at Collins Cycle Shop. Adventures it will take you on: Priceless.

No, it is not dorky to ride with a helmet. It can actually be quite attractive when you pick the right one. Find yours at Collins Cycle Shop.

Mountain Hard Wear Epic Pant break wind and rain from Oregon's wet winters. Find these at McKenzie Outfitters for $95.

Trekking Poles by Leki are durable and fold to reduce size. McKenzie Outfitters: $139.95.

Atlas 1002 Elektra Snowshoes will get you through the deep snow ... if you can find it. McKenzie Outfitters: $249.

Mountain Hard Wear Approach Tent sleeps two comfortably, includes a rain sheet, and packs into a surprisingly small bag. McKenzie Outfitters: $279.

Patagonia Women's R4 Jacket is shown here in orange and provides a soft wind-resistant fleece layer. McKenzie Outfitters: $215.

Mountain Hard Wear Second Dimension Sleeping Bag. McKenzie Outfitters: $175.

Camelback DayStar. So thin, you'll hardly notice it until you need it. Fill it up with water and it could be a live-saver. McKenzie Outfitters: $60.
