

Flipping Out

The National Acrobats of Taiwan come to town.

If you ever wanted to run away and join the circus when you were a kid, don't miss the 35-member National Acrobats of Taiwan this week at the Hult. OK, even if you never wanted to perform astounding tricks with everyday objects including plates, bowls, chairs and tables, this show should blow your mind.

Don't try this at home, boys and girls. Each performer trains for an average of eight years before full initiation into this troupe, and the show crosses the boundaries of language and culture. In fact, the troupe travels around the world to spread Chinese culture, promote folk art and establish cultural exchanges with other countries.

The performance includes chair building, where each chair is raised higher than the last with an acrobat doing a handstand on each one; bicycle riding of up to 10 people riding a single bike; unicycle riding and many more amazing physical feats.

If you've never seen them, take my word for it: The National Acrobats of Taiwan performances are a treat. This show will be a perfect opportunity for the whole family to come together in the name of multicultural entertainment. Tickets are $18-$26. People 18 and under get a $10 discount. EW
