Rogue Brews New Chipotle Ale

Beer is a good companion for spicy foods, but now pepper lovers can have the best of both worlds. Rogue Ales brewer John Maier has created a new Rogue Chipotle Ale spiced with smoked jalapeno peppers to celebrate Cinco De Mayo, Mexico's independence day. It's a deep amber ale with a hearty aroma, and is available on draft and in 22 ounce bottles in stores and at the brewery at 844 Olive St. Rogue Ales was founded in Oregon in 1988 and was one of America's first 50 micro-breweries.

Plaza Coffee Shop Closes

The Plaza Coffee Shop at 57 W. 29th is now closed. After being in the same location for more than a decade, owners John Lee and David Lee have grown tired of their two and a half year search for a new location and have closed their doors "permanently, for now," said John Lee. The Plaza Coffee Shop once shared a building with Rite Aid Pharmacy. Now Rite Aid is expanding into the part of the building that previously housed the Plaza Coffee Shop.

New Corvallis Restaurants

Two restaurants have opened recently in Corvallis. Cork's Old Fashioned Donuts, a small doughnut eatery, opened at 336 SW Jefferson.

Bada Bean, a two-story restaurant located at 225 SW 4th St., opened on March 29. Bada Bean is a restaurant and coffee shop with free wireless Internet and a casual bar. The baristas brew up a mean latté, serve it quickly with a smile.
