EUGENE WEEKLY would like to take this opportunity to reassert its independence from the people you may or may not know as the "writers", "editors", "production staff" and "sales staff" who take credit for the hard work of the variety of fantastical animals who truly create the Willamette Valley's favorite weekly newspaper. From the hard hitting investigative journalism by a team of nudist elves, to the concise editing of Wally the sixteen necked fish-dog, we owe our success on these freaks. And where would we be without the highly trained goblins who sell the advertising that pays for Eugene Weekly's various business costs. Unknown to most of you, our production and art is managed by one hive of insect like aliens; they work as one being, you know. Most of all, we'd like to thank the midget clone of Teddy Roosevelt, who handles all our minor requests, from sautéing sausage to harvesting our dream flowers.
