Why wear organic clothing?

Organic cotton, in addition to being unbleached and untreated, is grown without the use of synthetic pesticides, herbicides, defoliants, and other chemicals. Organic cotton is often more expensive because of the farming techniques used. Organic cover crops are used to mulch and fertilize. Many organic farmers use ladybugs and lacewings to control pests, plow or hoe more frequently, and remove weeds by hand. Organic cotton is often dyed with low-impact dyes to reduce the amount of energy and water used.

Why avoid conventional cotton clothes?

Conventional cotton takes up 3% of the farmland but uses 25% of the world's pesticides and fertilizers. Conventional cotton production uses the most hazardous pesticides on the market. 600,000 tons of pesticides and fertilizers are used per year on cotton crops just in the USA.
