WELLNESS CENTERED DENTISTRY, PC

By taking a holistic approach and arranging for health rather than merely treating disease, we offer an opportunity to restore your oral health to its optimum.

We look at the whole picture, consider health and underlying factors, and take steps to perfect your smile while preventing problems before they occur.

Calling Out Around the World

We're dancing in the streets!

Joint Forces Dance Company and participants from this year's Danceability teacher training will glide, stroll, stretch and saunter in a street performance parade from 4 to 7 pm July 22.

A motley crew of 25 international dancers, with and without disabilities, will delight dance discoverers all over downtown. The show begins at the Eugene Library, then moves on to the downtown bus depot, followed by the Broadway plaza at Willamette Street. From the plaza, the parade will meander its way toward the Hult Center's Jacobs Gallery and the Hilton Hotel and Conference Center plaza.

The parade is designed to showcase the skills of the 2005 DanceAbility teacher certification program at the UO Dance Department. Students are immersed in a training program that provides them with the tools to work in the dance idiom with people of all abilities and cultures. After a month in the studio, I betcha these folks are ready to get outside and party!

Friday night is a delicious chance to glimpse two rarities in our community, contemporary dance and a surprised audience watching it for free. The chance happening of 25 movers on downtown city streets is worth checking out.

Eugene's own Alito Alessi, creator of the Danceability method, recently won a 2005 Guggenheim Award for his choreography. Although the parade may be a little more like Mardi Gras than Martha Graham, the crew will snake its way over to the WOW Hall (doors open 8:30 pm) for performances by ElectroDanceFunkGroove-playin' by Eleven Eyes and the one and only Joint Forces Dance. Tickets are $6-$12 at the door. EW
