Lane County Herbicide Spray Schedule

• Near Marcola Elementary

School: Oregon Forest Management Services (896-3757) will ground spray 78 acres with Clopyralid and Hexazinone herbicides for Weyerhaeuser (741-5211) April 27 – June 1 (No. 55407).

• Oregon Forest Management Services will ground spray 741 acres with Velpar and Transline herbicides for Weyerhaeuser near Clark Brook, and Parson Creek tributaries including within 10 feet of domestic use watershed in Section 22, Township 16 S., Range 2 W. (No. 55406).

• For complaints about ODOT spraying of highways call (503) 986-4366.

• Last week in this box, the wrong number was listed for the toll free-ODOT number for information regarding roads which are being or have just been sprayed. The correct number is (888) 996-8080.

does not reduce, increase, impact, change, alter or otherwise modify surface or subsurface characteristics.”

Kevin Matthews of Friends of Eugene objected to the plan from a number of angles. “The statement of need for this project is entirely non-quantitative, so whether or to what degree the project is indeed a matter of required capacity is impossible to evaluate or refute,” he says. “The application provides no consideration of impacts outside of minimum project footprint. Yet direct and indirect impacts of such a large construction project over a mile and a half length are not likely to actually be limited to the documented 90-foot-wide strip.”

Citizens for Public Accountability also weighed in on the plan recently, saying, “This isn’t just ‘any’ sewer. This would be a 4-foot-tall sewer pipe in a 21-foot trench into West Eugene wetlands that we (and the Army Corps of Engineers) recently got Hayden Homes to back out of.” — Ted Taylor

SWITCH TO SWITCHGRASS

With one full-service biodiesel and bioethanol station operating and the city’s Public Works Department using biofuels, Eugeneans appear to be endorsing alternative fuels. But at City Club of Eugene April 13, UO astrophysicist Greg Bothun questioned whether biofuel could really take the place of
