Oregon Festival of American Music The 2007 festival, "The Sweetest Sounds," pays tribute to Richard Rodgers, one of musical theater's most lionized producers, winning Pulitzers, Tonys, Oscars, Grammys and Emmys like they were thank-you cards from aunts and uncles. A frequent collaborator with Lorenz Hart and Oscar Hammerstein, he wrote the music for many of your favorites, including Oklahoma!, The King and I and A Connecticut Yankee. This year's festival features two of his most cherished works: Rodgers & Hart's 1937 comedy Babes in Arms and Rodgers & Hammerstein's 1949 drama South Pacific, both fully staged. In addition, OFAM presents nine days of concerts, recitals, films, talks, youth and senior music camps and more. The whole thing kicks off tonight with "A Wonderful Guy!" a gala dinner celebration of Dick Hyman, 6pm, Shedd Recital Hall, $50 (other festival event prices vary greatly); events continue through Aug. 11. www.ofam.org or 434-7000.
