

Closeness to the earth fills my earliest memories, and being connected to the palpable energy of this beautiful planet has always sustained me throughout my entire life. Whether sitting in the wild grass and enjoying the abundance of life at ground level, gazing up at the trees to marvel at the dancing of leaves, or being enchanted by the mesmerizing stories of plant lore; this fascination for the natural world has been my path in life which grows with each passing day.

Because of these warm experiences, I have integrated both my fond childhood memories with my current passion for plants to provide others with opportunities to improve their own health in a most profound way. By simply absorbing the natural world and its sublime beauty as a small child I never realized the tremendous impact it would have on improving the health and harmony of so many people.

By offering the finest quality certified organic herbal products, we have created the perfect medium for the healing and empowerment for thousands of people worldwide, and all of it done directly with nature's assistance. I still love sitting in the wild grass, gazing at the green abundance all around me and often prefer being there than behind my desk.
