wolves mean good business...

In 2001, Mountain Rose Herbs relocated from California to Oregon, but not for tax breaks, labor pools, or economic development credits. We wanted to live and work among the wild wolves, rushing rivers, and ancient forests of Cascadia.

Since moving here, our company has grown to include 11 farms, 3 factories, and over 130 full time employees. We want to remind our legislators that unspoiled wilderness is capable of generating jobs, and that preserving our ecological heritage has profound economic benefits.

If you love the beautiful Pacific Northwest, please help us protect it. Get in touch with the good folks at Oregon Wild and save what matters most...while the howls still sound.
