The history of Halloween is a long one. Scholars maintain that it began with pagan celebrations of the dead some time ago — and the first traceable usage of the word "Halloween" comes from 16th-century Scotland. But at the end of the day, this spooky holiday has become far less sinister than its roots, which suggest that the boundary between the living and the dead is at its weakest on Hallow's Eve. Nowadays Oct. 31 is an evening of awesomeness characterized by jack-o'-lanterns, costumes, haunted house parties and — the obvious crowning jewel of the evening — candy. Trick or treat responsibly, and if you get home on Wednesday night to find your pumpkins smashed and toilet paper dangling from your roof, don't worry; it probably wasn't ghosts. Probably.

Halloween is on Wednesday, Oct. 31. Ouja Boards not included.
