Love Food Not Waste

Eugene businesses turn food scraps into compost and crops.

Eugene has diverted 61.5% of its trash from the landfill. That's the highest diversion rate in the state!

We have diverted over 1,000 TONS of food waste from the landfill since the program began last year!

We couldn't do this without all of our local partners and program participants!

SHOW US YOUR COMPOST!

In honor of America Recycles Day and our anniversary, we are having a compost photo challenge! Show us your backyard pile, garden compost, workplace compost... anywhere—be creative!

Submit your photos to facebook.com/lovefoodnotwaste by November 14th—Winner receives a yard of LFNW compost!

Eugene residents only, please.

UNIQUE BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Friendly Street Market

Thanks to ALL for 13 full and prosperous years!

After 13 years at the helm of Friendly Street Market, Julie, Eric, and Forest Marchini Resener have decided the time has come to pass along the stewardship of this unique, vital neighborhood natural food store to the next family or individual.

We are grateful to all who have supported us and the market and all who have made Friendly Street Market such an awesome community gathering hub – the countless local vendors, farmers and artists who fill the market with local bounty, as well as our remarkably friendly staff who keep the market humming and, of course, our loyal customers.

Since 1980, Friendly Street Market has flourished within this richly diverse South Eugene neighborhood. We are making this open announcement in order to be able to best reach that certain someone(s) who will be a good fit in terms of commitment to providing quality natural products and service in the Friendly neighborhood. Eugene is arguably a center of the natural foods universe and we feel strongly that the market's next owner is quite likely among us here.
