Genetically modified wheat on the loose in Oregon got you down? Is it "We the People" or is it giant corporations that have rights? Community Rights Lane County wants to confront corporate governance with a united front. "Giving Away the Farm: How industrial corporate agriculture is killing local food systems and what communities are doing to change that" is a workshop with Kai Huschke of the Community Environmental Legal Defense Fund that promises to teach about communities organizing around empowerment, the tools they are using, and how corporate rights undermine the rights of people and the environment. By all accounts, these wonky-sounding workshops that CELDF leads around the Northwest get folks all stirred up for action.

Huschke speaks 6pm Tuesday, July 2, Bldg. 17, rm. 308, LCC Main Campus. $10-$20 sug. don. For more info go to wkly.ws/1i5.
