Squeal Like a Pig Pecan Balls

FROM DELACATA

As you approach the Delacata food cart on the corner of 8th and Olive in downtown Eugene, you might hear squeals of delight emanating from customers trying these Squeal Like a Pig Pecan Balls for the first time. Delacata owners Stephen and Colleen Sheehan take pride in their Southern-fried food, and this new creation is off-the-charts good. "It's a homemade pecan pie that is made into balls and then rolled in pork skins and deep fried, and then topped with whipped cream," Colleen Sheehan says. "And it is good!" The pork skin doesn't make the pie taste porky; it just adds a delicious salty crunch.

How do they come up with stuff like this? "We lay awake at night in bed thinking of random things we can do," she says, "just putting a spin on things." When you have an imagination like that, along with a fryer that never stops, there's no limit to what you can do. The Sheehans are now ready to step outside of the food truck and enter the world of brick and mortar restaurants; they will be opening The Elk Horn restaurant, brewpub and cider house in the former Carl's Jr. site at 686 E. Broadway. Stephen Sheehan optimistically estimates Elk Horn will be open in May, while Colleen Sheehan's money is on June. When they do open, they will be Eugene's first dual-licensed pub making cider, beer and mead on premises. Their food cart will still be open while they make the transition.

PECAN PIE

1 cup sugar

1 1/2 cups corn syrup (the Sheehans use dark)

4 eggs

1/4 cup butter

1 1/2 tsp vanilla

1 1/2 cups pecans, coarsely broken</
