

THIS MODERN WORLD

THE EWEB OPTION

A number of years ago the city pondered the idea of a new City Hall building. After much studying, there was no thought of putting the new building on the site of the present City Hall. The best place for it was the “butterfly” parking lot. The planning turned out to be too expensive.

Now the planning seems to be build new or remodel. Why do we need to keep the new City Hall in the same 50-year-old place? That building could be used for other purposes. We do own other buildings that could be used. The present EWEB building is on a beautiful site with a view of the river and overlooking our central park. EWEB staff is planning to move out of the building and then either rent it or sell it.

We already own this building, just as we own the present City Hall. We paid for it with charges on our electric bill — not taxes on our property. It has plenty of parking space and room to build any needed expansion. I don't believe the City Council has ever seriously discussed the value of using that building as the new City Hall.

WHAT HAPPENED?

Back in the 1990s, it seemed like this area had a thriving and vibrant, almost in-your-face LGBT community. There was something going on all the time, from imperial court activities to drag queen balls. The Hilton threw a Halloween bash every year that many of us T people would attend in our over-the-top outfits. It was all fun and lots of smiles. We had Neighbors and Perry's and other places one could go and relax, have a beverage and visit with like-minded people of all stripes. The Actor's Cabaret hosted LGBT-themed
