

"He stares through wolf eyes from his hard knock skin," a voice recites in verse, accompanied by a soft flute. Enter a mosaic of cross-genre art — combining jazz, poetry and theater — telling the non-linear story of a homeless man's journey. Eugene musicians Candace Renee Perkins, Eve King-Lehman and Jack Niedermann, along with Kit Chell, will perform Hard Knock Skin: A Jazz Poetry Epic at 8 pm Thursday, March 12, at WOW Hall. A Eugene poet and theater artist, Chell developed the show two years ago, combining free-verse poetry with the sounds of flute and upright bass to narrate one man's chilling story.
